R. R. MEN WHO JOINED IN STRIKE ENTITLED TO JURY TRIAL

Part of Clayton Act Which Provided That Employees
May Demand a Trial by Jury Declared by Supreme Court to Be Constitutional

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Railroad employees who joined the shopmen's strike of 1922 were entitled to jury trial when charged with contempt of court, it was held today by the supreme court.

That part of the Clayton act which provided that employees may demand a trial by jury was declared by the court to be constitutional and valid.

The relationship of employer and employee does not cease, the court held, when a workman goes on strike and the provisions of the Clayton act for protection of the employee therefore apply under such circumstances.

The question had been brought before the court by Sam Michaelson and others, who had been employed by the Chicago, St. Paul and Omaha Railroad company and who claimed that under the Clayton act they were entitled to a trial by jury.

The federal district court for western Wisconsin held and the seventh circuit court of appeals declared that part of the Clayton act which provided for trial by jury constitutional and found that the men had lost their standing as employees of the railroad when they went on strike and therefore were not within the provisions of the Clayton act, which applied only to employees.

During the strike the federal district court for western Wisconsin issued a temporary injunction restricting picketing upon the Chicago, St. Paul & Omaha railway to one representative of the strikers at each point of ingress and egress. Shortly thereafter the railroad complained that the terms of the injunction were not being observed by the strikers and sought to have them punished for contempt.

Michaelson and his associates were brought into the case and sentenced for contempt.

By 14-Year-Old Boy and in the Sum of $10,000
By Boy's Father

Trial of the six actions of tort involving $180,000, brought by 14-year-old Joseph Gouvela and his father, Antonio, against Edward J. Michael J. and Jennie M. Murphy, all of Lowell, as result of an automobile accident at Gorham street and Dent's court on Oct. 14, 1923, got under way in superior civil court here today before Judge Frederic B. Greenhaige and a jury. Each of the three defendants is sued in the sum of $50,000 by the boy and in the sum of $10,000 by the father.

Atty. James M. Hay of Boston appears for the plaintiffs, with James J. Korwin and James E. Reilly for the defendants.

Identifying testimony was given this forenoon by Will Rounds, photographer, who took several pictures at the scene of the accident, and by Fred W. Jordan, city engineer, who drew up a chart of the street loca-

CAVE MAN DUMB BEAST

Lets His Mate—His Wife—
Do His Thinking, Says Mrs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—"The cave man was a poor dumb beast who let his mate—his wife—do his thinking for him."

This was the conviction expressed today by Mrs. George C. McCurdy, anthropologist and explorer, as she and her husband, professor of prehistoric research at Peabody museum, Yale university, returned on the steamship Orbita after a summer's work abroad.

"From my investigations in 14 European museums and in many excavations I doubt very much that the cave man was the boss, after all," Mrs. McCurdy declared. "Women evidently displayed the earliest signs of intelligence. It was natural that they should, for there was the danger of the camp and they had more time to think."

"Men research workers held that the beautiful pre-historic paintings and drawings were the work of cave men. I'm convinced that the best of them were done by cave women."

DESTROY FEAR

"Don't be this and don't do that," were admonitions of the mothers of Anytown, as well as of any other part of the world.

It is quite natural that a mother should warn a child against various dangers, but to put definite fear into the heart of the child is something quite different.

The proper procedure is to explain carefully the conditions of a thing which a child needs to fear—whether it be automobiles or disease. And it should be a sense of caution rather than fear that is implanted.

The offices of nerve specialists are crowded with cases of "fear neurosis." These are people with nameless fears and when their minds are trailed back to childhood it is frequently found that nameless fears were implanted in them for years.

Teaching of caution is instinctive. It is to be found in the lower animals, but the parent should be most careful not to confuse it with fear. For fears are terrible things and lead to depression and general unfitness for enjoyment.

Don't frighten them with fears and threats of the bogey-man.

Don't frighten them with fears and threats.

...instruct them, and there will be no need for threats and fears.

FORMAL OPENING OF FIDLER'S BOSTON LADIES' OUTFITTERS NEW STORE

Wonderful Business Expansion Under Progressive Management of Charles S. Fidler and Son—"The Store Beautiful" Proper Designation for New Building

Fidler's Boston Ladies' Outfitters, under the management of Charles S. Fidler and his son, better known as "Cousin Cy," has realized the dream of years in the formal opening of its new, built and furnished department store at 22-100 Merchants street. The expert merchandising experience of the senior member of the firm has made possible this wonderful expansion of the business. Mr. Fidler's long experience in the manufacture of the store has also served him well in his recent achievement. The junior member of the firm, now general manager of the entire establishment, is also well versed along buying and selling lines, this fact being made plain by the expansion of the business within a comparatively short time.

"The store beautiful" is the proper designation of the newly enlarged building which houses four floors of quality merchandise at the right prices. Its new copper front augurs well for the success of the building which contains immense display corridors, well-lighted and advantageously suited to the showing of the articles offered to the buying public at the lowest possible prices.

The store opened ten years ago by the senior member of the firm was as nothing compared to the store of today.

With but three salesclerks on the force, and selling only coats, suits, dresses and millinery, Charles S. Fidler opened the Boston Ladies' Outfitters. Most pronounced success was achieved in the first year, and within three years a ready-to-wear section was opened on the street floor, Middle street. Children's wear was also added and then the surprise basement where the quality and price are most alluring to the thrifty housewife. Last year the capacity of business transacted in one of Lowell's leading stores warranted the purchase of the Cook-Taylor building and the complete remodeling of the store, which today stands among the foremost selling houses in the city and it might be ventured, in the state, outside of Boston. Quality with service, plus a courteous sales force together with the money-back-if-not-satisfied system have made the store what it is today.

One of the features of the new store is the fine set of display windows. These window displays about the entrance on Merrimack street and the excellent showing of goods in them presents a veritable fairland of gorgeous gowns, cloaks, millinery, novelties and lingerie. Mr. Paul Blumberg, window decorator for Fidler's, has won for him many coveted prizes.

As a special feature of the opening, the windows represent a gala display of autumn gowns and wraps, millinery's most cherished finery. Handmade Spanish shawls which today are quite the thing in society's circle are also on display, and vary from the deep rose blush artistically trimmed with heavy fringe to the purest white decorated in pastel shades. The main feature of the display is the center window which is arranged with handsome silk yard goods and novelty jewelry. In the center front is a miniature old English frigate sailing of the more romantic days when silks and lace were foremost in woman's trousseau.

In the Middle street section, which was until recently devoted to ready-to-wear goods, have been opened a new yard goods department where dress goods of silk, velvet, woolen and cotton are offered as well as made-up articles of linen. Draperies also find a corner in this well equipped innovation.

The ready-to-wear department has been moved to the second floor and the extensive line of quality goods, including coats, suits, dresses and millinery, which is offered on this floor, is really astounding to the purchaser as the field of choice is so broad.

It is a well-established fact in the Fidler concern that they carry what is wanted. Velvets in the new turn-of-the-century design; silks, beaded and brocade; and the very popular divinity sport dresses and charming afternoon and street costumes are included in the line of ready-to-wear goods. Coats of velvet, Kersey, suede, mink, fashion, chamouille, new zella and many other materials offer to the thrifty shopper a wide choice of materials. Sizes for the miss, the matron and the stout woman are in the lot, and all at a reasonable price.

The new gift, lamp and toy shop, situated on the fourth floor presents a variety of pictures of novelty designs. Bridge lamps, floor lamps, table lamps, are among the large assortment of pretty "extras" so necessary in the properly furnished home. Gifts galore, most prepossessing in their appearance fairly shriek out their beauty. The toy shop, always an asset in a department store is completely furnished and contains everything in the line of toys from games to automobile racers.

The children's department, on the third floor is elaborate in its offerings of dainty articles for the "pride of the home." Latest fashions for baby, really a most important thing in babyland today, are shown to advantage and include the prettiest and daintiest babies' wear available. And a word about the millinery department. The director, the dressy and the hat for street wear are offered in this department. All the popular colors and stylish trimmings make the Fidler millinery shop a most popular trade mart.

The executive offices and the window decorator's studio are situated on the second floor and are easily accessible to the business man and woman.

Built up entirely on the policy of quality goods and proper prices the firm of Fidler's Boston Ladies Outfitters today stands high on the list of first class department stores.

Most pronounced success was achieved in the first year, and within three years a ready-to-wear section was opened on the street floor, Middle street. Children's wear was also added and then the surprise basement where the quality and price are most alluring to the thrifty housewife. Last year the capacity of business transacted in one of Lowell's leading stores warranted the purchase of the Cook-Taylor building and the complete remodeling of the store, which today stands among the foremost selling houses in the city and it might be ventured, in the state, outside of Boston. Quality with service, plus a courteous sales force together with the money-back-if-not-satisfied system have made the store what it is today.

One of the features of the new store is the fine set of display windows. These window displays about the entrance on Merrimack street and the excellent showing of goods in them presents a veritable fairland of gorgeous gowns, cloaks, millinery, novelties and lingerie. Mr. Paul Blumberg, window decorator for Fidler's, has won for him many coveted prizes.

As a special feature of the opening, the windows represent a gala display of autumn gowns and wraps, millinery's most cherished finery. Handmade Spanish shawls which today are quite the thing in society's circle are also on display, and vary from the deep rose blush artistically trimmed with heavy fringe to the purest white decorated in pastel shades. The main feature of the display is the center window which is arranged with handsome silk yard goods and novelty jewelry. In the center front is a miniature old English frigate sailing of the more romantic days when silks and lace were foremost in woman's trousseau.

In the Middle street section, which was until recently devoted to ready-to-wear goods, have been opened a new yard goods department where dress goods of silk, velvet, woolen and cotton are offered as well as made-up articles of linen. Draperies also find a corner in this well equipped innovation.

The ready-to-wear department has been moved to the second floor and the extensive line of quality goods, including coats, suits, dresses and millinery, which is offered on this floor, is really astounding to the purchaser as the field of choice is so broad.

It is a well-established fact in the Fidler concern that they carry what is wanted. Velvets in the new turn-of-the-century design; silks, beaded and brocade; and the very popular divinity sport dresses and charming afternoon and street costumes are included in the line of ready-to-wear goods. Coats of velvet, Kersey, suede, mink, fashion, chamouille, new zella and many other materials offer to the thrifty shopper a wide choice of materials. Sizes for the miss, the matron and the stout woman are in the lot, and all at a reasonable price.

The new gift, lamp and toy shop, situated on the fourth floor presents a variety of pictures of novelty designs. Bridge lamps, floor lamps, table lamps, are among the large assortment of pretty "extras" so necessary in the properly furnished home. Gifts galore, most prepossessing in their appearance fairly shriek out their beauty. The toy shop, always an asset in a department store is completely furnished and contains everything in the line of toys from games to automobile racers.

The children's department, on the third floor is elaborate in its offerings of dainty articles for the "pride of the home." Latest fashions for baby, really a most important thing in babyland today, are shown to advantage and include the prettiest and daintiest babies' wear available. And a word about the millinery department. The director, the dressy

IF LODGE SHOULD RETIRE WHO WOULD SUCCEED HIM?

BY HARRY D. HUNT
NPA Service Writer
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The political perplexities of the G. O. P. will not end with the election of Calvin Coolidge on Nov. 4, should that result crown the efforts of republican campaigners.

For even with a republican victory, carrying a nominally republican house and senate—since most members of the La Follette bloc in congress will be elected under that designation—the job of organizing party leadership in the two houses of congress will be a trying and difficult task, involving much tribulation and from some quarters.

Word now reaching Washington is that it is extremely doubtful whether Henry Cabot Lodge, republican leader in the upper house, ever again resumes his seat in the senate.

Lodge, now almost 75, has been in poor health for the past two years. He recently underwent an operation, which seems to have been negative in results. He has not left his home since.

The retirement of Lodge, either by death or disability, would force a reshuffling of the cards in the senate at a time when a new G. O. P. deal there would be most embarrassing.

For the necessity of having to choose a new party leader would give the progressive bloc a chance to set off a lot of fireworks that might be spectacular if not illuminating.

The very jealous among old-line senators who have had their eyes on the leadership for years, would give the progressives a chance to pay off, in part at least, a number of old scores.

While they wouldn't be able to control the situation, in a final settlement, they would be able to add a lot to the agony and suspense during the period of wirepulling and jockeying.

Actually, Lodge's "leadership" has been leadership in name only during the past two sessions. His falling health has undoubtedly contributed to the rigidity of discipline in the senate. Not only the obstreperous progressive bloc within the party, but individuals like Borah, Coughlin, Capper and Howell, have defied the party lash and gone scathless.

2-WAY TESTS MORE CERTAIN OF SUCCESS

By N.E.A. Service
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Reports from amateurs and broadcasters of long distance communication greater than ever before recorded point to successful outcome of the two-way international broadcasting tests to be conducted during the week of November 24 to 30.

From the American Radio Relay league comes word that W. B. Magner of San Pedro, Calif., succeeded in communicating both ways with Frank D. Bell of Waltham, New Zealand over a distance of 5000 air miles. The previous world's record, established by Carlos Bragg of Bernal, Argentina, was 4000 miles.

For this feat, Magner wins the Australian boomerang offered to the first American amateur to establish communication with Australia.

K. L. Medman of Long Beach, Calif., also got into communication with Australia, only half an hour later.

Broadcasting station KGO, at Oakland, Calif., reports having been heard in New Zealand, Australia, Tasmania and clear across to Japan, during its international tests conducted early in the morning of August 30.

Broadcasting stations in the east daily are reported heard in England and France, while occasional reports come from American fans who have heard 210 and other famous British stations.

All these instances point to most successful international radio work ever attempted, say its sponsors.

British stations are expected to attempt at reception in America of communications rebroadcast from the stations in France, Germany, Holland and Switzerland. If they are received here, the occasion will truly be an international affair.

RADIO BROADCASTING
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Conditions were announced today by the department of commerce under which licenses will be issued on a strictly experimental basis for the use in radio broadcasting of power up to 5000 watts.

The conditions were drafted in line with recommendation of the national radio conference that general increase in power of 1000 watts was desirable in all stations to overcome static and give better service to listeners. Super-power stations having 25,000 to 50,000 watts are not considered in the plan, and each station taking out an experimental license will be considered as a separate entity in view of varying local conditions.

HE PAYS!
The cost of a modern class B radio station is about $25,000. Its upkeep averages around $25,000 a year.

Those broadcasters who permit advertising, outside of WEAF, get an average of $100 an hour, at the rate of about two hours a night for six nights in the week. On this basis the income runs up to $60,000 annually.

Not much of a business, of course, figuring on this low basis. But broadcasting is not intended as a profit-bringing business by most stations at the moment. It is the means by which radio manufacturers, dealers, newspapers and others on the air may advertise themselves over a wider area.

If a method is reached by means of which all expenses for this advertising can be covered—fine. And if there is a little surplus at the end of the year—so much the better.

Yet this is only the beginning. When a man starts into a new business and breaks even at the end of the first year, or even five years, he considers himself lucky. Here is a business in its infancy that is more than breaking even.

What it will spread to in later years may be estimated from this.

BIG INCREASE IN RADIO ON FARMS
A special survey made by the U. S. department of agriculture recently shows a surprising increase in radio on farms.

It is estimated there are more than 350,000 receiving sets in the rural districts, as against 145,000 a year ago.

The radio market news service, to which may be attributed a large part of this increase, has been developed rapidly during the past three years until now it is possible for farmers in practically all parts of the country to receive daily market quotations and reports on agricultural conditions.

SYMPHONY ON AIR
The St. Louis Symphony orchestra is preparing to broadcast its concerts from the Edison at St. Louis, through station KSL. The first concert will be broadcast on November 8.

INFORMATION BUREAU'S
Besides being broadcasting stations, the large transmitting studios must be information bureaus. For all sorts of unrelated queries come in from all parts of the country.

"WHO PAYS" NO LONGER A PROBLEM

By ISRAEL KLEIN
N.E.A. Service Radio Editor

Advertising is making the new business of broadcasting a profitable undertaking.

Even from the start, it seems, broadcasters generally have found the sale of advertising time a most profitable way of killing two birds with the same stone—furnishing entertainment to its listeners without cost and more than paying for the maintenance of their stations. In fact, broadcasters have been coming out ahead in the annual accounting of advertising income and expenses.

So promising has this business of radio advertising become that the question, "Who shall pay for broadcasting?" is generally considered answered. Advertisers are paying and in a most remunerative manner.

As here of the receipts obtained from radio advertising may be gleaned from a rough estimate of the business done by the leader in this field, Station WEAF, controlled by the American Telephone & Telegraph company in New York, is the pioneer in broadcasting advertisements.

It is a subtle form of advertising, a kind of "indirect" advertising, for kind mention of advertisers or products, but requires only a casual reference to a name included in what is apparently the evening's entertainment. For this mere mention, station WEAF receives a fee of $100 for every 10 minutes the advertiser is on the air, and some advertisers have been known to pay $500 an hour.

And WEAF, being the pioneer in this field, is so pressed for time by agencies seeking to broadcast their products or propaganda that even two hours a night is a conservative estimate of its daily advertising allowance.

That other broadcasters who permit advertising are not losing is shown by a recent estimate of the income and expenses during the year.

No Loss Shown
The cost of a modern class B radio station is about $25,000. Its upkeep averages around $25,000 a year.

Those broadcasters who permit advertising, outside of WEAF, get an average of $100 an hour, at the rate of about two hours a night for six nights in the week. On this basis the income runs up to $60,000 annually.

Not much of a business, of course, figuring on this low basis. But broadcasting is not intended as a profit-bringing business by most stations at the moment. It is the means by which radio manufacturers, dealers, newspapers and others on the air may advertise themselves over a wider area.

If a method is reached by means of which all expenses for this advertising can be covered—fine. And if there is a little surplus at the end of the year—so much the better.

Yet this is only the beginning. When a man starts into a new business and breaks even at the end of the first year, or even five years, he considers himself lucky. Here is a business in its infancy that is more than breaking even.

What it will spread to in later years may be estimated from this.

BIG INCREASE IN RADIO ON FARMS
A special survey made by the U. S. department of agriculture recently shows a surprising increase in radio on farms.

It is estimated there are more than 350,000 receiving sets in the rural districts, as against 145,000 a year ago.

The radio market news service, to which may be attributed a large part of this increase, has been developed rapidly during the past three years until now it is possible for farmers in practically all parts of the country to receive daily market quotations and reports on agricultural conditions.

SYMPHONY ON AIR
The St. Louis Symphony orchestra is preparing to broadcast its concerts from the Edison at St. Louis, through station KSL. The first concert will be broadcast on November 8.

INFORMATION BUREAU'S
Besides being broadcasting stations, the large transmitting studios must be information bureaus. For all sorts of unrelated queries come in from all parts of the country.

MOON SEEN TO AFFECT RECEPTION

By N.E.A. Service
HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 18.—The moon, in its various phases, is believed to influence radio reception.

Observations made by amateurs and reported to headquarters of the American Radio Relay league here point to this explanation for the different degrees of static encountered at certain times.

At present the only observations made in this regard, have been on the European long wave signal, since there have been better receiving conditions on this side of the Atlantic than in England. Further experiments, however, are being conducted on shorter wavelengths directed eastward.

According to observations so far recorded, while long wave signals were traveling west across the Atlantic, had static conditions prevailed while the new moon was up, or the moon was in its last quarter. Signals were fairly although forso "than at any other times."

The best signals came across while the moon was in its first quarter, or in full phase. The least static occurred during the full moon phase, while the moon in its first quarter seemed to produce a little more static.

These observations did not take into account local disturbances, such as thunderstorms, nor such phenomena as fading, although very little of this occurs on long waves.

THE VOICE FROM WOO
Miss Val McLaughlin is the "Sandman" at WOC, the Davenport (Ia.) station of the Palmer School of Chiropractic. She is one of the most popular announcers in the country, her experience at chautauques and lyceum platforms especially, fitting her for the role.

JUST BE TOLERATED
Radio broadcast listeners must keep on tolerating static. Although it has been found that there is less static with short wavelengths, it has not yet been found practicable to build receivers for shorter than the present broadcasting minimum. So static must stay a while.

REGULAR OCCURRENCE
Station KDKA has been conducting regular daily broadcasts to Buenos Aires and England. These transmissions are being sent on short waves and a power input of seven kilowatts.

RECORD TO DOUBLE
Estimates of radio business during the coming fall and winter point to an aggregate of $360,000,000 in sales. This is about twice the record of the corresponding season last year.

AFTER MIDNIGHT
French amateurs who want to test their apparatus are not permitted to transmit on their allotted short waves before midnight. He can transmit at any time on wavelengths between 180 and 200 meters.

DECEIT
There was a nerve specialist in Anytown who was fond of telling a story about a woman who came to him for consultation.

When she had been a child, the psychiatrist learned, she developed the habit of "getting sick" whenever there was anything hard to be tackled at school.

On the occasion of a particular arithmetic quiz the child realized that she had been negligent in her studies and was likely to "not pass." So she made an excuse to her mother. Three months before this child had been quite ill. Memory of this illness and its escapes from duties occurred to her and she pretended to be again troubled.

It worked. She escaped. Now at this period of her life the "attack" was intentional and premeditated. But continuous use of the same device to get out of perplexing problems resulted in the "sickness" being registered by the "unconscious mind."

In later years the sickness would bob up lamely whenever any difficulty was encountered. By this time the woman did not realize that the whole thing was not sickness at all, but a form of defense built up through the years and now seeming to be a reality.

Such cases are numerous and should cause parents to watch carefully the actions of their children lest they develop conditions similar to that here described.

LOWELL'S BIALTO

Miss Mae Busch, who effects the title role in "A Woman Who Sinned," which will be shown at Lowells Bialto all this week, starting today, is a versatile fashion show by herself. The towns worn by Miss Busch in "A Woman Who Sinned," present a splendor of clothes heretofore unequalled on the screen. The gowns are the latest creation of an exclusive shop in Paris. In on way are they reminiscent or suggestive of anything in midday's wants that have ever been shown to feminine eyes before. Although Miss Busch is the possessor of a myriad of expensive gowns, at no time is her histrionic ability overshadowed by her costly clothes. The story of "A Woman Who Sinned" is from the pen of Elms Fox. In addition to writing the story, for which he was offered $50,000, Fox directed and produced the pictures. A number of elaborate sets are shown in the picture, including one interior set that cost more than $8000 and a big revival scene employing nearly 2000 extras. Mae Busch is the featured player, supported by Irene Hill, Morgan Wallace, Rex Lewis and other noted film stars. The story itself deals with a minister's wife who is placed in an embarrassing position by the actions of her husband. She is then abandoned and goes with the man who has wronged her. Time passes and she is brought face to face with her son who accuses a reputation as the "boy evangelist." At this point of the story, Elms Fox has worked up the strongest dramatic situation that has ever been placed on the screen. You'll never see another picture quite like this one! See it now—the week at the Bialto or the same bill with "Fools in the Dark," a mysterious melodrama which is said to be even more creepy than "The Last Warning" and has Elms Fox and Patsy Ruth Miller as the co-stars. "Fools in the Dark" is about a young man who hated business—particularly his father's business—all he wanted to do was to write scenarios for the movies. He conceived a man, heroes and beautiful heroines, place them in thrilling, hair-raising situations and extricate them in all sorts of melodramatic ways. And then the fun began, then the real story started of which circumstance was the author, he wrote the girl he loved the principal actress. Never in his wildest imaginings had he conceived the drama, the action, the thrills, the romance, the mystery and the intrigue that he actually became part of it. Never had he believed such characters existed that he came in scene of writing the picture that will keep you on your lips every second of the time. "The Kiss of the Sphinx" under the direction of John J. Kehoe will be in the pit every afternoon and evening. They have arranged a special series of music for both pictures. Here is a program worth seeing! It is without doubt the greatest double feature in Lowell at popular prices.

THE STRAND

"What am I did for this pearl of paradise who outshines the rarest beauties of the richest nation?" Horrocks, the young English midget of gentle breeding, Helena to the dawning voice of the auctioneer and the shrill humorous cries of the Moslem bidders, scarcely realizing that he was being sold as a slave in a public market. The above word picture is taken from Rafael Sabatini's greatest play story, "The Sea Hawk," which is playing the picture week at the Strand. It describes a Moorish auction block, and is but one of the hundred or more tense scenes enacted in this truly wonderful picture in which Milton Sills and an all-star cast are seen in their best scenes of work. Words fail to make the proper impression concerning the real worth of this great screen drama. It has everything that a big picture is expected to contain, and many other commendable features that rank it the genuine leader of the year in picture production. It's great from every picture angle. Lowell people, undoubtedly will acclaim it the best just as every other theatre centre of the country did, where it was shown. It is being shown three times daily. Don't miss it. Three world-famous wrestlers appear in a galley slaves in this dramatic narrative. Constantin Romanoff, Hackenschmidt and the Terrible Swede, all internationally famous for their strength and agility on the mat, worked for several weeks as "slaves" in the big Lloyd drama to keep in condition between matches. Also at Camp Lloyd on Santa Catalina Island, where 200 principals, extras and technical assistants to Mr. Lloyd made their headquarters during the filming of sea scenes, the famous trio participated in various bouts for the benefit of the others, one match between Romanoff and Hackenschmidt going an hour and fifty-seven minutes without a fall.

MEHRMANN SQUARE

mac Square Theatre the first half of the week, Gloria Swanson adds new laurels to her screen interpretations by showing her nobility as a mimic. In one of the scenes in the picture which shows a gay party in a New York sculptor's studio Miss Swanson does an impersonation of Charlie Chaplin that has been the talk of the studio. The intention of this bit of mimicry in the picture came about quite by accident. One day after a scene Miss Swanson was clowning on the sidelines and somebody handed her a derby hat. "I'll do a Chaplin for you," she told Allan Dwan, and, after securing a crepe-hair moustache, she performed so much like the redoubtable comedian that it was agreed that she do the stunt in the picture. The comedian attraction is "Welcome Stranger," a whimsical humorous story of the "Tolash and Perlmutter" type, with Dore Davidson and Florence Vidor in the leading roles. A comedy and the latest International News round out the bill.

Four performances of "Manhandled," the feature, are being given daily. Women patrons are urged to attend the matinees to avoid the crowds at night.

CROWN THEATRE

The comedy delight of the year is "Happiness," the second motion picture made by Laurette Taylor for Metro, which is at the Crown today and Tuesday. Miss Taylor is simply ravishing as a happy-go-lucky little shop-girl who brings the joy of living into a home made gloomy by too much wealth. Her personality shines from the screen to the audience like a rainbow, and is as ingratiating to those who need treatment for the blues and other nervous ailments. The picture was taken from the play by J. Hartley Manners, and the author himself made the screen adaptation and continuity. Glenway Lyons was the photographer. A fine supporting cast includes Pat O'Malley,

Hedda Hopper, Cyril Chadwick and others.

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Clarence Oliver and George Oly will appear as the headliners at the R. F. Keith theatre, this week, in the fascinating comedy of pathos called "Wire Collect." Usually comedy is humor, but this one is a delightful blend of humor and heart. Interest. Billy McDermott, the gifted tramp specialist will tell just what happened when Coxey led his famous march to Washington, and Corinne and Dick Humber will turn out one of the most attractive of dancing acts. They come from the big musical comedy shows, where they have made distinct hits. Yates and Carson will present "Getting Soaked," comedy and music, and Lois Bonnet, a songstress from California, with Muriel Pollock, accompanist, will deliver over a high class musical act. Hailo and LaMont are comedy acrobats. The week's picture will be the howling comedy, "Racing Luck" with Monty Blue in the big role.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The Stanley James Stock players this week offer to Lowell the greatest bill ever given here in stock. It is "The First Year," clean comedy on the first year of married life, written by Frank Craven who originally played the leading role with Miss Roberta Arnold as co-star. This show ran for two solid years in New York city and

RED PEPPER HEAT BREAKS BAD CHEST COLDS OVER NIGHT

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and is certainly seems to melt the congestions and drive the congestion and soreness right out. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat in three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, headache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles"—Adv.

Successful Modern Business is No Battle of Wits IT'S AN OFFER OF SERVICE WITH A PLEDGE OF GOOD FAITH

That is as it should be. Every store has its policy. Ours is to sell Furniture, Rugs, Bedding and Stoves at a smaller profit than is believed possible by the trade in general and command greater volume of sales that nets as much profit to us at the end of the year. But it takes courage and confidence in yourself to follow this policy, as there is nothing to warrant that you will get the volume of sales. That's the reason so few stores follow it. As a speaker at a trade convention said once, (we quote): "There is the power of advertising to contend with. There are the famous blowers of trumpets, the famous claimers of all ages. They trumpet a mediocre writer, singer, actor, merchandise or price till your ears are filled with their claims. They transform a mediocre lawyer or politician into a sort of personage. You can hardly fail being filled with admiration for the skillful means used. They can make you believe black is white. It is an art. It's a mixture of a sort of hypnotism, a sort of modern puffism. This evil exists to a great extent in present methods of merchandising which should be only distribution of merchandise at a fair cost to cover the transaction. Due to the fact that anyone can buy newspaper space and say what he wishes in that space, the exploiter of the public often succeeds better than the one who serves the public faithfully." Whether you know the value of Furniture, Rugs, Bedding, Stoves, etc., or not, you will feel instinctively safe here. You will have absolute confidence that you are not being charged an undue profit over the cost of its production. That's all you can expect. To lead you to expect more would only be an attempt to deceive you.

for two seasons on the road. It is regarded by critics as the greatest play written in America in the past fifteen years. There is a wealth of comedy that is bound to win the audience and the plot is one that is both subtle and charming.

The leading roles will be handled by the popular leading members of the players, Mr. Gerald Rowan and Miss Lillian Desmoude. This great present day play is destined to do capacity business commencing with today's matinee. It is a show that cost high to bring here but it is a sure fire winner. You will like it. Better phone 7610 now and make reservations.

There will be no Friday matinee. Wednesday and Saturday nights are at the present time so nearly all sold out to subscribers it is wise for those who would prefer to attend on those evenings to either phone early in the week or get on the season subscription lists. With "The Gold Diggers," "So This is London" and other first-class bills coming, all sure to attract capacity houses, it would seem the wise thing to do is get on the season subscription list.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

BY BARACA CLUB

The Baraca club of the Calvary Baptist church held the installation of its officers for the coming year at the church services last evening. Glen Holcomb, president of the organization for the ensuing year, presided.

The installation ceremonies were performed by James A. Boyce of Medford, president of the Massachusetts Philatelic union. President Holcomb then reviewed the work of the organization since its existence and outlined plans for the coming season. The Scripture lessons were read by Merrill Calkins. Rev. Wallace C. Sampson, pastor of the church, offered prayer. Several vocal selections were given by the members of the class while the choir under the direction of Edward

J. Dills, rendered "Appear, Thou Light Divine."

Following the installation ceremonies Mr. Boyce addressed the members and emphasized the fact that their motto, "Service for Others," should be lived up to.

The officers for the year are as follows: President Glen Holcomb; vice president, Armin Meyer; secretary, Ralph Harvey; treasurer, Carlton Flynn; teacher, Norman Farnum; associate teacher, Earl Stevenson.

FIREMEN'S RELIEF FUND ASSOCIATION

The Lowell Firemen's Relief Fund association, in its report for the year ending Sept. 30 issued by President William F. Christie, paid out for medical and hospital bills, for men injured while on duty, a total of $5803.90, against which there is only $255 recorded as gifts to the association.

The Associate fire was very costly to the firemen. Nearly every man who fought that fire lost part of his personal equipment and in addition, each man was assessed $5 by the association as his part of the expense of medical and hospital bills for men injured while on duty.

The officers of the association, President Christie, Secretary George H. McDermott and Treasurer Joseph J. Malone, face the task of replenishing the funds immediately and the only method open is to seek donations from the general public. The president has named a committee to take charge of this work and members will immediately begin canvassing for funds. In order that there may be no question as to the collectors, they will wear their uniforms while seeking donations.

CUTICURA HEALS HARD PIMPLES

Face Terribly Disfigured. Lasted About a Year.

"My brother was troubled with pimples that broke out in blotches on his face. The pimples at first were small and scattered but later they grew larger and were hard and red. It was impossible for him to shave without irritating them and making them bleed. They grew steadily worse, and his face was terribly disfigured. The trouble lasted about a year.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped him so we purchased more, which completely healed him." (Signed) Miss Lenora M. Galusha, Clinton, Me., April 14, 1924.

OPENS STORE IN LOWELL

Victory Textile Stores, Inc.,
to Sell High Grade Coat
and Dress Goods

The fourth store of the Victory Textile Stores, Inc., opened Saturday at 129-131 Central street, under the management of Edward Brown. The first store of this chain was opened a year ago in Framingham. The establishment was from the beginning a marked success, in fact so much so, that a few months later two other stores were opened, one in Milford and the other in Clinton. The policy of the concern was such that satisfied customers resulted with an accompanying increase in business. The growth was such that the opening of the local store became not only possible, but an assured fact.

The new establishment is attractive in its equipment, cream and mahogany being the prevailing color tones. At the rear are demonstrated pleasing effects in window drapery, of which there is a full line.

REV. M. J. MURPHY ADDRESSES LEAGUE OF CATHOLIC WOMEN

Chaplain of Massachusetts State Prison Gives Illustrated Talk on "Life Behind Prison Bars"—Says Neglectful Parents Responsible for Delinquent Children

"If the strong arm of the law would only reach out and make itself felt by the careless and neglectful parents, rather than the children, for the class of parents are the real offenders, we would accomplish something worth while, in the line of prison reform. We would thereby dam the river of supply at one of its sources." So stated Rev. M. J. Murphy, chaplain of the Massachusetts state prison, in an informal talk before the League of Catholic Women at its first meeting of the season held in Liberty hall yesterday afternoon.

The reverend gentleman, for nearly fifteen years chaplain of the state prison, illustrated his topic, "Life Behind Prison Bars," with a series of interesting stereoscopic views, which depicted the various buildings, in which prisoners are housed, work shops, cells and recreational centers.

Most interesting were the views showing the shop where all the number plates for the Massachusetts automobiles are made by the prisoners and the underwear factory where all kinds of underclothing are made for the various institutions of the state. The speaker emphasized the fact that the prisoners should be compensated for the work they do. He briefly reviewed the prison reform which today is at the highest degree of humanitarianism. The prisoner no longer wears the striped garb; he is allowed to smoke from early morning until evening and is also allowed the use of a razor, some prisoners shaving daily.

Rev. Murphy praised highly Warden Hendry, stating that he was most considerate and generous. His fatherly interest in the prisoners makes him ideally qualified for his position and in him the prisoners find a just and confiding official. He also spoke in high measures of praise of Rev. W. B. Whitney, Protestant chaplain, and the Jewish rabbi, Moses L. Seidat.

The reverend clergyman in explaining prison life and the conditions which lead to it, said in part: "Reform is greatly needed in the treatment of juvenile delinquents. The home is the proper place for such reform but unfortunately the lack of this reform is deplorable. One great cause is divorce. Family life is being threatened by this cancerous element. There are today 1,300,000 children under 10 years of age in divorce homes. During the past year there were 14,554 divorce cases. I am firmly convinced that if these neglected parents were indicted as accessories before the fact there would be less juvenile reform needed."

being devoted to the development of the intellect and not enough to the strengthening and fortifying of the will power. It would seem that education today is a panacea for wrongdoing.

"What we need is religious and home training. Unless you can make a man conscious of his duty to his God he will become unmindful of his duties to his fellowman, and that today is the cause in many cases where prison reform is needed. Just a little kindness, a word of encouragement will accomplish much. It is as easy to say pleasant things and to do kind deeds as it is to be cranky and contrary. How many of us today are doing the boasting we should?"

The Prison Problem

"The scientific investigation of the prison problem indicates that the best efforts of social and welfare workers should be directed to securing such environment and training, both mental and moral, as will nip in the bud the criminal propensities of the young, the wayward boys and girls of today who may become adult transgressors of tomorrow. The supply of inmates to the prison in the years to come.

"It is immaterial in this great work of reformation whether the budding transgressor is the product of different causes or not. The method of treatment in individual cases might be varied, but the absolute necessity of applying some adequate systematic treatment is obvious. If the supply of future inmates is diminished by just and equitable provisions of law and the earnest brotherly co-operation of the citizens, the overflow will necessarily decrease and give less concern any we would indeed rapidly reduce crime to a minimum and decrease the number of felons now supported at enormous expense.

"This plan of campaign demands a radical change in the method of dealing with the juvenile delinquents. To rescue and restore youthful offenders, not so much by the terms of the law as by the more gentle and effective influence of kind, watchful observation and care, in one of the highest functions of government. The methods of the past have in many instances only hardened and converted wayward boys into confirmed criminals. The present trend is slowly but surely impressing itself upon the minds and hearts of thinking people, that prevention is better than punishment, better not only in a moral way, but from a practical point of view.

"The young whom we have been accustomed to initiate into court procedure for a trivial cause, which is the beginning of most criminal careers, and to sentence to transient schools and reformatories, are recruited from badly damaged homes wherein there is a total absence of proper training and religious instruction. These children are not educated to understand their individual relationship and personal responsibilities, but rather how to avoid them. The confinement of this type in a public institution exposes them to the fearful liability of being still more thoroughly corrupted by contact and association with others of the same type and vicious than themselves.

Previous to the talk, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin, chaplain of the league, invoked the blessing of God on the work of the organization during the year and bestowed his blessing upon the members.

Halloween Party and Dance

Dr. E. Y. Slaughter, president, then announced that plans were progressing rapidly for a Halloween party and dance to be held in Liberty hall on Oct. 30. She also stated that on Wednesday evening of this week at 8 o'clock in Liberty hall Mrs. Francis Scannell of Boston would speak publicly on "The Child Labor Bill." The civic committee of the league, Miss Eva Blanchard chairman, is sponsoring the project and the public, men and women, are invited to attend. Announcements of the various classes conducted by the league was also made. The classes this year will include home-making, embroidery, business English, social correspondence, home nursing, cooking, dressmaking, naturalization and civics courses. Miss Mary Phibben is chairman of the committee in charge of the courses and application may be made by telephoning her 693-J. A nominal sum is charged for the home-making and English courses. All other classes will be taught free of charge. Miss Mary Dwyer is chairman of the social service committee for this year, while Miss Nellie Roarkie is chairman of the membership committee.

GOV. SMITH PLEASED WITH SITUATION

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 20.—With half of his upstate campaign tour completed, Governor Alfred E. Smith goes this afternoon to Rochester.

Governor Smith declared he was well pleased with the political reports he has received thus far in his campaign, and that he saw no reason why his plurality should not be larger than it was two years ago, when he defeated Governor Miller by 330,000 votes. He reiterated that he was making a campaign "strictly on record," while his opponent "seems to be trying to go through the campaign keeping as far from the record as he possibly can, claiming credit for everything good in the last forty years for the republican party and contenting himself with a general denunciation of the democrats."

"He's standing a ride, hoping the conductor doesn't find him," the governor added.

The word used in the manufacture of "cedar chests" comes from a species of juniper.

DELAY RATIFICATION OF AGREEMENT

MOSCOW, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press) Ratification by the Soviet government of the Anglo-Russian agreement has been postponed, owing to the governmental crisis in England. It is definitely stated in a resolution of the Central Executive committee of the government, introduced before the all-Russian parliament.

Favorable termination in the near future of the negotiations with Japan and early unconditional recognition of the Soviet by France are expected, according to the resolution, which congratulates the government on the re-establishment of normal relations with China and the acquisition of the Chinese Eastern railway.

A few people realize that we have in Lowell such capable artists and a trip to the exhibition will be well worth while. The date of the exhibition will be announced later.

Women's Minor Ills come from one cause

Chronic constipation is the plague of their lives, but thousands keep healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

WOMEN are so accustomed to finding themselves constipated that they are apt to make matters worse by indifference. Unfortunately many seem to think that it is easier to give the appearance of health with cosmetics, or stifle a headache with an opiate, than to remove the real cause by taking a good laxative.

The pill habit, of course, is not to be recommended, but any woman can take such a mild laxative as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin with assurance that the dose can gradually be decreased and that there will be no shock or weakening of the system.

As is generally known, Syrup Pepsin is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. A spoonful will clean out the impacted matter and make you feel well by morning.

You should take a dose when you feel the slightest symptom of constipation, such as biliousness, flatulency, lassitude, loss of appetite, restlessness, bad breath, dull eyes, salivary glands, and to stop fevers and colds. Many do not wait for these symptoms, but take Syrup Pepsin regularly once a week. Mrs. Mary J. White, 122 Cedar Ave., Camden, N. J., and Mrs. L. H. Edwards, Palisade, Colo., say that much of their excellent health can be ascribed to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The other members of the family also use it as, being free from opiates and narcotics, it is perfectly safe, even for infants.

More than ten million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are sold annually, the largest sale in the world. If you have been in the habit of using strong cathartic pills, salt waters or "candy cathartics," which contain a coal-tar drug called phenolphthalein, we especially urge you to try this milder method. You will have a better, freer passage and without strain or gripe. A bottle can be had at any drug store and the average cost is less than a cent a dose.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Peppin Syrup Co., 518 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them postpaid by mail. Do not inclose postage. It is free.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION CLOSED SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Rousing Meeting at the Memorial Auditorium—Stirring Address by Bishop William F. Anderson—Sunrise Meeting at Fort Hill Park

After sessions for two days the 29th annual Christian Endeavor state convention came to a close at the Memorial Auditorium Sunday afternoon with a stirring meeting which had as its principal speaker, Bishop William F. Anderson of the Methodist Episcopal church of New England. More than 2000 men and women were present to participate in the closing exercises of the highest and best convention in the history of the society in Massachusetts.

Also, yesterday afternoon, the retiring president, Eric S. Bacon, turned over the gavel of authority to his successor, Rev. S. H. Addison of Marlboro.

Bishop Anderson's address was an inspiration to all within reach of his voice. Among other things, he forcefully pointed out that enduring peace cannot come to the world until man has become imbued with the true spirit of brotherhood. He also declared that the Christian conscience of America has been responsible for great world movements, namely the clearing away of slavery and the putting down of liquor traffic. He asserted that the only way to wipe out the bootlegger is to regard him as a traitor to the United States and to treat him accordingly.

In part, Bishop Anderson spoke as follows:

"Mr. Chairman and good friends, in opening I wish to speak concerning the impression I was given of New England before coming here. I was told by a good many of my friends that I would miss much in the Boston area that I had enjoyed in the Cincinnati section. I was given to understand that my reception would be frosty owing to the natural reserve of the New England people. During the past few weeks I have been in New Hampshire, Maine and Massachusetts and I will say that if the welcome I had enjoyed in the Cincinnati England reserve the trust that it will continue. Courtesy and kindness have been accorded me on all sides.

"One of the outstanding books of the present times is 'In the Heart of a Fool.' It is written to show the folly of trying to build up character and loving God out of our career. Midway the book it stops from the survey of industrial, political and moral and religious matters and makes one pointed statement: 'All things God always leaves an unfinished task on the work bench of the world.' Here is food for thought. Here is history.

"Since 1914 we have heard people say the Christianity has been tried and found wanting. Is this true? Is there an element of truth in this statement? I think that in a certain way this may be true. Take the sentimental, dogmatic, state political and theoretical religions, they have been tried and found wanting. Will I say that the Christianity of Jesus has been found wanting? No man can say so honestly. Christianity is tried and found wanting. It has not been tried and found wanting. It has been found difficult and not tried."

The speaker then called attention to the matter in which the disciples of Jesus went about crying that the Kingdom of God was at hand. "They did not mean," he said, "the celestial kingdom or a vague shadowy kingdom, but they meant a kingdom, built on the life of humanity, with the essential principles of the life of God. They meant a regenerated life, a life of universal brotherhood and enduring peace. They lived in the dark ages, but they saw ahead that Kingdom of God in which the spirit of brotherhood dwells in the hearts of men. 'A small man cannot be a Christian. To be a Christian a man must feel the need of humanity and have good will to all humanity. As Jesus said, 'Go ye out into the highways and the hedges and bring them in.' That was the marching order of the master. Good will, that is the great need of life today.

"God will is the great need in the world today. It is the one basic principle of the Kingdom of God among men. Mr. Bacon has said that when 51 per cent of humanity is selfish then we have had times and when we have over 51 per cent unselfish then we come upon good times.

"What is the biggest word in the world? That word is 'Brotherhood.' Oh, how greatly the world needs brotherhood today and how the Christian needs to realize the value of brotherhood. The primitive church forgot one fact in framing its doctrines and down through the centuries it has come without the perfection of the great principle. Perhaps the world is not ready for it yet. But I believe that we are coming more and more to realize and the Christian to recognize in substance the principle of holding all things in common. To share things with others gives greater enjoyment and means much more to humanity.

"Yes, the biggest word and human sign of Christianity is 'Brotherhood.' Until this becomes true we are slaves. We will never have universal and enduring peace until we get the spirit of brotherhood. Men don't fight with their brothers and when we regard all as brothers and with good will, then will come peace.

"Universal peace has been hoped for in all times. Some have said that there will always be war. Well, if we are to have civilization preserved, then we have got to have some other way of making things right than war."

One of the most impressive services of the convention was the sunrise meeting at Fort Hill park Sunday morning, attended by nearly 1500 Christian Endeavorers and friends. The speaker was the new president of the state society, Rev. S. H. Addison of Marlboro.

COL. ROOSEVELT DISCUSSES FARMING

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 20.—In his speech today at Ithaca, the seat of Cornell University and its agricultural school, Theodore Roosevelt, republican nominee for governor, extolled the virtues of farming and outlined what he considered the proper scope of state aid for New York agriculture.

Colonel Roosevelt faced a somewhat lighter schedule this week, embracing 56 speeches, an average of eleven a day. When he leaves by night train for New York Friday night, he will have delivered 201 addresses in his swing around the state, with a week of campaigning in the metropolis still ahead of him.

POLICE HAVE NO CLUE TO SAFE-BLOWERS

The police have been unable to run down any clues of the safe-crackers who broke open the door of the safe in the plant of Chas. A. Dodge at Payne street, Saturday night. Only a small amount of money was stolen.

The break was reported to the police yesterday afternoon, and an investigation followed. The job was done by experts, according to Captain Petrie, a powerful pickpocket being used to dismantle the heavy door of the safe. No workable clues were left behind.

AL, JR., ELECTS LOVE CANDIDATE

Former Secretary of Navy
Witness in Suit Against
Doheny Interests

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20.—Former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels is to arrive today to testify in the government's suit against the Doheny interests for cancellation of Elkhill naval oil reserve leases, trial of which is to open in court tomorrow.

An array of legal talent seldom seen in any court room has been gathered in the past week in preparation for the court battle for possession of leases valued in the neighborhood of $100,000,000.

The case was to be formally called in Judge P. J. McCormick's court today and immediately on stipulation by counsel concluded tomorrow.

WICKS VAPORUB
OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY
For All Cold Troubles

To the Voters of Lowell:

I am aspiring to be mayor of Lowell. I am not a politician in the generally accepted meaning of the word.

Most politicians are in politics for what they may be able to get out of it.

Strange as it may seem, I am not in it for what I can get out of it.

I would like the honor and the opportunity to show the people of Lowell that the duties of Mayor and the business of the city can be carried on the same as that of any other business when common sense and the Golden Rule predominate.

Most politicians promise everything and do nothing. I will promise nothing but will accomplish something. The first thought in the minds of most Mayors that are elected is to get re-elected and so in order to accomplish this, their back bone becomes a wish bone, and it is their aim to do nothing that might cost a few votes. As a result the burden of taxation is increased and the people have to pay for the votes thus made.

This will not be so in my case.

I will not be concerned about a re-election. The City of Lowell or any other concern could not hire me for five thousand a year if the position did not carry honor.

The Mayorality of a City carries and confers on a man an honor of which one who has gone through life as I have might well be proud. You have candidates before you who are orators, some of marked ability. I am not an orator, am satisfied to be a performer and if it's an orator you want for Mayor, count me out.

The questions that may arise through the course of a Mayorality term are so many that it is impossible to say what disposition can be made of them. I can only promise a fair and square disposition of any question that may arise, keeping the welfare of the people first in my mind.

I do not pose as a saint or a reformer. I am a sinner like 99 per cent. of humanity, and cannot work miracles, such as making Lowell whiter than snow. My slogan is the same today as it was three years ago, "Common Sense," with the addition of the Golden Rule.

My first effort if elected will be to create Harmony amongst all department heads and the governing bodies, so that the best results for the benefit of the people may be obtained.

If a policy of this kind appeals to you, put your shoulder to the wheel and by your vote and your influence help to elect Scott Mayor.

Truly yours,
SAMUEL SCOTT,
220 Appleton Street.

G. O. P. Rally Here

cases before the voters, probably as much because they had other speeches to make today in North Andover and in Lawrence as for any other reason.

Mr. Rogers was given the usual cordial reception which marks his public appearance in his home district and Senator Howard was received with equal effusion. Mr. Fuller was the main attraction of the afternoon and his speech was the characteristic studied and dignified remarks the public has grown to expect of him.

For an afternoon rally the attendance was all that could be expected. The rally served its main purpose well, that of showing that the party in the state has not been completely overcome with the general feeling in New England that, without effort, the flock will be carried in with Coolidge.

From Adams to New Bedford and from Springfield to Lowell the whole state is a stamping ground for the republican party leaders this week. Headed by Gov. Cox, Lieut. Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, Speaker Frederick H. Gillett and Senator S. D. Fess, of Ohio, the best speakers in the party will strongly urge the election of the entire republican ticket from Calvin Coolidge down.

Lieut. Gov. Fuller has made the chief issue of the state campaign that of republican economy in government vs. extravagance, comparing the administration of Gov. Cox, which Lieut. Gov. Fuller pledges himself to continue, with the Curley financial policy as exercised in Boston.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN REITERATES CHARGE

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Conferences with "some 150 state and district leaders" during the past week, have convinced Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican National committee of "the open alliance" between democratic and third party leaders in certain states, Mr. Butler declared in a statement today.

"The open alliance," the statement said, "of the democratic and third party leaders in certain states to throw the election in congress and thus deprive the voters of their right to elect a president at the polls, has stiffened the determination to block this plan by voting for Calvin Coolidge.

"The program of the third party for the destruction of the constitution, the virtual abolition of the supreme court, and the public ownership of railroads, has aroused the people to the gravity of this election and the importance particularly of their individual votes."

"The nation-wide confidence in Calvin Coolidge and the resultant determination to vote for him, continues to be one of the most impressive features of this campaign. We have profited by the character of the issues, which our opponents have introduced and the campaigning methods which they have employed."

"Our opponents are apparently not altogether happy over the situation. We are already experiencing their backfires and I anticipate that the next two weeks will find the air thick with charges, accusations and misrepresentations aimed to divert the public attention from the real issues."

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

OUR CIVIL WAR HEROES

When it comes to a question as to how this or that individual or group of individuals will vote, there is one conclusion that cannot be gained and that is that they will vote for their own interests according to their lights. The same is true generally of organizations and political parties; but here the individuals are also free to use the suffrage for their own best interests, for the welfare of their families, their homes and in support of the candidates who will promote the measures and the policies which they, the voters, wish to see carried into effect. It is thus we get an assertion of the collective will of the people as indicated by the majority.

There is a question as to how the veterans of the Civil war will vote in this election. If they consider only their own personal interests, they will vote solidly against the republican party for the reason that the president vetoed the Bursum bill which would have added slightly to the pensions of these venerable veterans. There is no class of citizens and no veterans so deserving of kind consideration, as the men who served in the Civil war, the men who saved the Union and made it possible for a unified nation to retain its seat of government at Washington. But comparatively few of them are left, they are being mustered out at an alarming rate by the Supreme Commander, and when they are gone the men who refused to treat them with generous kindness will doubtless expatiate lugubriously upon their glorious service to the nation. Yes, gloriously indeed if we consider their heroic sacrifices from Sumpter to Appomattox, but inversely inglorious is the act of the official who in the application of a parsimonious policy, or more probably through political expediency, refused the mere pittance sought to enable them meet with greater comfort and solve the infirmities of age and the sufferings from the wounds received on the battlefield. Yes, it would give them a degree of comfort and satisfaction to feel that a grateful nation fully appreciated their sacrifices; but unfortunately they cannot enjoy that feeling at the present time in view of the action of President Coolidge in vetoing the Bursum bill.

Is there any reason why these men should vote for President Coolidge in preference to John W. Davis? We believe not, and on the contrary, there are many compelling reasons why they should vote for Davis, one of the strongest of which is, that the president failed to show due appreciation of what the Civil war veterans deserve when he vetoed the Bursum bill.

The veterans are saying nothing; they are not campaigning; but they feel the slight thrust east upon them; and they resent that even more than the refusal of the increase which the bill would provide. If they follow the instincts of human nature, or the dictates of justice and right, as we know they will, in casting their ballots on November 4, there can be little doubt as to the side on which their votes will be recorded. While millions were wasted by grafting officials, the nation was too poor to offer any further proof of its gratitude to the few survivors of that Grand Army, which, if judged by valor, patriotic sacrifice and the importance of the victory achieved, has never been excelled in all history.

ISSUES FOR VOTERS TO SETTLE

The secretary of state has issued a pamphlet for the voters of the commonwealth, explaining the seven questions to be submitted to the voters at the coming election. Already The Sun has referred at length to practically all of them. Six of them refer to matters of state legislation. The first two involve amendments to the state constitution placing women on a political equality with men, which will probably be adopted. Referendum No. 3 submits to the voters the question of enacting legislation for the enforcement of the Volstead act. On this question there will of course be difference of opinion, but the 18th amendment providing for national prohibition is the law of the land and it is the duty of every citizen to favor its enforcement. The modification of the Volstead act which is but the interpretation of the amendment is a different matter that may or may not be taken up by congress. In some states the amendment of the Volstead law is a campaign issue. But while the law is on the statute book it should be strictly enforced throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Referendum No. 4 has to do with the question of imposing a special tax of two cents a gallon upon all the gasoline purchased in the state for motor vehicle uses. It is provided that said tax shall be paid by the purchaser to the distributor, who in turn pays it to the commonwealth and this money is to be credited to a fund to be known as the "Gasoline Highway Fund." After the expenses of collection are paid, 60 per cent. of the balance of said fund is to be distributed to the cities and towns of the commonwealth in proportion to the amounts which they contribute to the state tax.

This is all very well and the intent of the tax is good, of course. But the owners of motor vehicles feel that they already have to pay a sufficient number of special taxes and charges without adding others to increase their financial burdens. The two cent gasoline tax, however, has been adopted in quite a number of states and it remains for the voters of this commonwealth to decide whether it shall be adopted as a result of a popular verdict.

Referendum No. 5 provides that with certain limitations no person shall engage in or be financially interested in the business of receiving deposits of money for safe keeping or for the purpose of transmitting the same to foreign countries unless he has complied with the law requiring a bond to the state treasurer and a license from the banking commissioner authorizing him to carry on such business.

This measure should be adopted as it would prevent certain agents and bankers from swindling people who employ them to transmit money abroad or to invest it in certain securities. It is not expected that there will be any honest opposition to this question, and accordingly it is likely to be carried by a large majority.

Referendum No. 6 calls for an expression of opinion on the question as to whether daylight saving shall be retained by law in Massachusetts. The arguments that have been presented against daylight saving seem to have made a big impression throughout the state and to have turned public sentiment against this innovation on account of the inconvenience to farmers, to families and the confusion caused by the change, especially along the borders of adjoining states that hold to standard time.

Referendum No. 7 has to do with the child labor amendment to the federal constitution. It is more important than all the others combined and inasmuch as it has been discussed at length in these columns and the extreme danger of adopting such a change in the organic laws of the nation, pointed out, it is needless to repeat the arguments offered against it in this brief summary. It calls for a grant of power to the federal government that would rob the state and the state of the right to control the labor and education of children under 15 years of age. It should be defeated.

CAMPAIGN EXPENDITURES

In all the presidential elections since the days of Mark Hanna in 1896, the republican party has been noted for its vast expenditures for the purpose of carrying for elections. It could never afford to spend so much money for political purposes if it did not calculate upon compensation through a protective tariff. This is the way in which the republican party shows its gratitude to the special interests that contribute large amounts to its campaigns.

The special committee now investigating the campaign expenditures of the various parties finds that already the republicans have spent almost $2,000,000, while Manager Butler says that $3,000,000 will be needed to complete the work.

This amount may be considered extraordinary, but it is not up to the average of what the republican party has been spending in national elections. In 1920 the two leading parties spent $19,338,509 to nominate and elect a president. Of this amount the republican organization spent $5,100,739 and the democratic $2,237,770. The special committee to which the 1920 reports were made signed a statement declaring that "the expenditures of such vast sums in presidential campaigns is a growing menace to the nation." The committee, however, made no recommendation that this practice should be prohibited by law. As a result it is now in full force and large manufacturing concerns which make heavy contributions to republican campaign funds can rely upon getting the highest tariff protection they ask for if the republican party be retained in control of the government.

INTERSTATE BUS LINES

The fact that some of the new bus lines engaged in interstate business will come under the control of the interstate commerce commission, is a matter of much concern to the cities through which these lines pass. They are under local police jurisdiction, but it seems that beyond the cities through which they pass have little if any power to regulate or control their operation. It is a local question, the outcome of which will be watched with interest.

It now transpires that we have liquor concerns doing a wholesale business in imported goods. The prices are said to be so high that the retailers are not getting a fair shake although it all comes back upon the consumer who is foolish enough to purchase the stuff at prices which are said to be as staggering as the liquor.

Gov. Smith attacks his opponent, Col. Roosevelt on his participation in the scandal, but Roosevelt's reply is brief and characteristic. He simply says: "I'm honest and clean as a whistle." We do not believe that Col. Roosevelt is really dishonest, but he should understand that there is not a crook in the land who does not claim to be honest.

She has become the pet of the children and has been photographed several times.

Hats Off, Brooklyn

The little town of Brooklyn, Conn., boasts of two voters who are sure enough record makers. Fred S. Porter, 97, has cast his ballot at every election for 73 years, and Gilbert Griggs, 55, has never missed an election since he was 21, 74 years ago; and, unlike many voters of today, he has never scratched a ballot in 148 town and state elections.

Obnoxious Pullman

A new policeman, an under-sized fellow, was halted by the street car conductor. "That guy," said the conductor, pointing to a surly individual about seven feet tall and four feet across the shoulders, "won't pay his fare." "Won't he?" asked the new cop, after a glance at the man. "Then he put his hand into his pocket. 'Well,' then, I guess I'll have to pay it," he said.

The sweet young thing was examining cameras. "What is the name of this one?" she inquired of the assistant as she picked up a dainty little instrument. "That is the Belva—here," replied the man. For a moment there was a chry silence. Then the sweet young thing pulled herself together and, fixing the assistant with a stony glare, she inquired lively: "And can you recommend the Belva?"

Wife a Comforter

"The solemnity of the meeting was somewhat disturbed when the eloquent young lecturer pictured in glowing words the selfishness of men who spend their evenings in clubs, leaving their wives in loneliness at home. The members of the school board were visiting the school, and the teacher was doing his best to impress his lords with his ability to teach. "Who signed the Magna Charta, James?" I don't like his manner. I believe he did do it."—Common Ground.

Paying the Mortgage

Years ago, a man named Zelger deserted his wife and five children. The two older girls have supported the family, living near Milwaukee, Wis., but there was no way to meet the mortgage on the farm due this month. So the two girls, June and Cella, decided to offer themselves in marriage to the first man with $3500 to pay off the mortgage. If one man had all the money, he might have his choice of the girls. If not, both would be married, the man to pay off the mortgage in equal shares.

Foretold the Job

A workman got a job at a coal mine siding, running wagons down an incline. There was only a sleeper at the bottom to stop the wagons, so the boss told him to be careful and keep the brakes on. All went well for the first two days, but on the third day something went wrong. About four wagons went down at a terrific speed and jumped over the sleeper into the canal below. The boss saw all that happened from his office window and came rushing out with wrathful face. The man foretold the remarks of the enraged employer: "You needn't come grumbling at me," he announced, "I've left!"

The English Of It

A certain Englishman on a visit to America thought that nothing was worth while unless found under the protecting shadow of the union jack. An American asked him what he thought of the country "No, on the whole, rather tiresome," said the visitor. "Haven't you seen anything out of the ordinary?" "Can't say I've been particularly impressed," "Well," said the American, "you astonish me. We thought there were a few interesting sights over here. Have you seen Niagara falls?" "Oh, yes. Spent half a day there." "Well, isn't Niagara worth looking at?" "From the Canadian side—yes!"

MAN ABOUT-TOWN

The talk of the day in local Advertising club circles, when it isn't the next week's program for the weekly dinner functions, is the Y.M.C.A. banquet hall, is the coming November and District convention of Associated Advertising clubs, whose members will rally in Hartford, Conn., for sessions lasting four days—Nov. 16 to 19. And Lowell Ad club will be represented without fail—be sure of that, friends. President Atkinson has been having way and a festive executive ability in his busy berth, and when he asks the members to do something, it is done.

The Hartford Advertising club members will meet at the Y.M.C.A. banquet hall, Nov. 16, to 19, for the November convention. President Clifford Hubbard of Hartford's live organization of "Ad" hustlers of the booster category will preside at an "inspirational meeting" to be held on the opening day, Nov. 16, in the famous Capitol theatre. The inaugural address of welcome will be made by Fred B. Smith of New York city; the subject: "Is America a Great Nation?" For the general session of the Hartford club on Nov. 17, William F. Rogers, advertising manager of the Boston Transcript and president of the Advertising club of Boston, will preside. Edward A. Filene, well known Boston merchant and student of international business affairs and home advertising problems as well, will deliver an address sure to interest the advertising class. Charles Cheney, sales manager of the Connecticut Telephone company, will make suggestions about Advertising New England. "The Coordination of Sales and Advertising" will be discussed by George Hopkins, vice president of the Charles W. Hoyt company of New York. Members of the associated Advertising clubs will be invited to take part in all discussions.

We've heard of strangers being lost in New York and in Boston, but today we learned of two Christian Endeavor club members who were lost for several hours in this city during the recent convention. It appears that two women delegates to the convocation, after leaving the Auditorium following one of the evening sessions, started on their way to the home of a friend in the residential district. They were lost for several hours, and when they were found, they were taken to the home of a friend. The women were found by a patrolman who was on duty at the time. They were taken to the home of a friend and were found by a patrolman who was on duty at the time. They were taken to the home of a friend and were found by a patrolman who was on duty at the time.

The great improvement of Alumni field since the high school athletic association has had change of the property has caused considerable favorable comment from persons attending football games there. New entrances and exits have been cut through the fence, and the grounds are kept clean and in good condition at all times.

The seating capacity at Alumni field is insufficient, however, for the crowds that attend the major football games. So far this year, the association has been fortunate in that the park commission has loaned it bleachers capable of seating 500 persons for all of the home games. If the association will order in the near future modern steel stands to be used at the park, and when this is done and the stands delivered and set up, the park will be equal to most high school athletic fields.

Patrons of the registry department of local postoffice have expressed considerable satisfaction with the new arrangement whereby two windows, instead of one, are available for this type of mail matter whenever necessary. Clerks in this department are also well pleased with the change made in the interior of the registry section, which gives them nearly twice as much room as they had before and expedites the handling of mail.

Many local automobilists, reading of the brake tests conducted by inspectors of the motor registry department with the decelerometer, commonly called the "dinner pail," have asked what this instrument is. Inspector Fitzgerald of the registry department answers: The decelerometer was invented by Professor James of the U. S. bureau of standards and operates on the theory of inertia. It is shaped similar to the familiar dinner pail, with a graduated scale in the place of the cover. The can is filled with heavy oil, in which a pendulum is suspended. The pendulum is connected to a series of gears which in turn operate a dial. It is placed on the floor of a car and when the brakes are put on, with the car in motion, the checking of the car's progress causes the pendulum to swing, and, through the action of the gears and this pendulum, the dial points on the scale the distance in feet necessary for the automobile to stop in when travelling at a rate of 20 miles per hour.

CLOSE OF CONFERENCE

Visiting Members of Girls' City Clubs Had Good Time in Lowell

The annual fall conference of the Girls' City club which was held here Saturday and Sunday was brought to a close yesterday afternoon following a tea and social with Mrs. Charles Holmes as hostess.

The main business of the conference was disposed of yesterday when several round table meetings were held at which various club problems and methods of club procedure were discussed with state and national officials.

Miss Alice Mifflin, state recreational director, outlined several programs beneficial to both club and members. Miss Marion Niles of Wellesley Hills, state president; Miss Gladys Gaylord of Clinton and Miss Harriet Ross of Philadelphia also addressed the members and offered helpful suggestions of club activities.

Miss Mary Ely, educational director of the country, spoke interestingly on her work and told of various means by which the work could successfully be carried on in various clubs, especially in girls' organizations. Miss Lindsay, assistant recreational director also spoke to the delegates as did Miss Croton, national executive. One of the features of the afternoon program yesterday was the presentation of the three political parties by the members of the Girls' City club of Boston. A series of debates followed by general discussions of politics, held under the direction of Mrs. Schumann of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, was most interesting and educational.

Following the tea and social hour the 150 delegates from out of town, escorted by the local members left for their various homes bringing with them favorable memories of Lowell as a convention city. The delegates were the guests of club members, officials and friends over the week-end and were royally entertained.

The following club officials are responsible for the success of the first conference to be held locally: President, Miss Sadie Melancon; vice president, Miss Helen Ryan; financial secretary, Miss Marie Lussler; recording secretary, Miss Winnie Welch; treasurer, Miss Mary A. McCarthy; executive secretary, Miss Alice Sullivan and members of the advisory club and committees, together with club members and friends.

Neglect

Hal Cochran's
DAILY
POEM

It isn't so easy to do little things at the time when they ought to be done. And it isn't so hard, as experience sings, after doing is really begun.

Too often we're willing to wait till tomorrow; too often we simply neglect. In putting things off it is trouble we borrow, 'cause waiting means doing is wrecked.

A rung in a rocker has worked itself loose and it ought to be fixed right away. You realize that, but you feel what's the use, when the job can be done any day.

The lock in the door doesn't work as it should and the tap has a leak that is slow. How easy to fix them if only you would but how easy to just let them go.

You'll find you will kill off much sorrow and stew and you'll find that such killing will pay, if you just don't put off till tomorrow what you could easily fix up today.

MARRIED 25 YEARS

Four Generations Represented at Silver Wedding Anniversary

Four generations were represented at the 25th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McKennedy, which was celebrated at their home in East Chelmsford yesterday afternoon and evening. In addition there were guests present from Lowell, Wakefield, Concord, Townshury, Providence and Stoneham.

Michael McKennedy and Catherine Harrington were married on Oct. 24, 1899, but the celebration was set for yesterday in order to permit their many relatives and friends to attend. The late Rev. John P. Reynolds, C.M.I., then pastor of the Sacred Heart church, Lowell, performed the ceremony. Five children blessed the union, all of whom were living. John, eldest of the children, is married and has a son, John, Jr. The other children are Louise, Henry, Gertrude and James. Mr. McKennedy's father, John, now in the eighties, and hale and hearty for his years, was an honored guest at the anniversary. He stood in the receiving line with his son and daughter-in-law as the guests stepped forward to offer congratulations. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, autumn foliage, ferns, potted plants and wedding bells and streamers being used in the decorative scheme. On display were numerous pieces of silverware, gifts to the happy couple. The children's gift to their parents was twenty-five dollars in silver. During the afternoon a delightful program was carried out while at 6 o'clock a sumptuous dinner was served. Later musical and literary numbers were given. At the conclusion of the happy event the guests departed after wishing Mr. and Mrs. McKennedy many more prosperous years of married life.

PRES. COOLIDGE TO TALK ON TAX REDUCTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—President Coolidge set aside part of his time today to start work on the address he will deliver here Thursday night before the eastern division of the chamber of commerce of the United States, in which he is expected to outline definitely his program for tax reduction.

Mr. Coolidge also plans to visit a meeting of officials of the Near East Relief here this week and later to address by radio a meeting in New York of the Federated Societies of Jewish charities.

Enlarging plans of the Navy league of the United States to observe Oct. 27, the birthday of President Roosevelt, as Navy Day, Mr. Coolidge, in a letter to Commander Marion Eppley, national chairman of the organization, said it could not be doubted that the navy's services to peace and the sciences of peace, would "contribute to justify the maintenance of the full naval capacity under the Washington arms conference treaty. That the naval treaty will prove only the beginning of an international program involving continuing reductions of armament by land, but sea and the air," he added, "is the earnest hope of all who desire the abolition of war."

SEN. WHEELER CHANGES SCHEDULE

ENID, Okla., Oct. 20.—By an Alteration of his schedule, Senator Wheeler, independent vice-presidential nominee, was given 12 extra hours today to campaign through Oklahoma. Beginning at 9 a. m. he planned to address a rally at Enid, while details of his movement were wired ahead in order to assemble audiences at most of the train stops between Enid and Oklahoma City, where he will speak tonight. Oklahoma is the twenty-third state into which he has taken his campaign. Senator Wheeler pointed out in his talk, and he appealed particularly to democratic voters to abandon their affiliations so far as their national ticket was concerned, on the ground that he had found during his lengthy tour little prospect that John W. Davis could defeat Coolidge in the November election.

BAR USE OF LENINGRAD ON PROGRAMS

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Complaints made to the officials and trustees of the Boston Symphony orchestra over the use of the name Leningrad in programs of the orchestra instead of St. Petersburg or Petrograd, will result in having the Soviet name for the Russian capital of imperial days eliminated from the orchestra printing in future, it was intimated today. Serge Koussevitzky, Russian director of the symphony orchestra, made public a statement disclaiming responsibility for use of the name.

"I would be the last to wish to honor Lenin and Trotsky," Mr. Koussevitzky said. "I have left my country because of them. I had a fortune of more than a million dollars in your money and it is gone. They took it from me. I could not understand why the capital city of my country should be called Leningrad in the program of our orchestra. I hesitated to speak about it, because I feared I might offend some of my good Boston friends."

Among those protesting against the use of the name was Conventry Guild, president of the Handel and Haydn society, the Apollo club and the Harvard Musical association. In an editorial published in a weekly newspaper which he owns, Mr. Guild said, in part:

MINOR CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Mark H. Pelletier, a soldier at Camp Devens was fined $5 for operating an unregistered automobile, and $5 for driving without a license, in district court this morning. He was arrested in the square early Sunday morning when Officers Conway and Mahoney stopped him for driving on the left hand side of the street.

Joseph B. Ronella, charged with operating an automobile in a manner to endanger the lives and safety of the public, was continued until tomorrow.

Sophie Romil, drunkenness, was given a suspended sentence of three months in the house of correction.

George Zilonis, assault and battery, was continued to Friday.

Mary Collins, deserting a minor child, was continued to Saturday.

GOV. BRYAN FACES A STRENUOUS SCHEDULE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20. (By the Associated Press)—Primed for battle, Governor Charles W. Bryan, democratic candidate for vice-president, left here early today, facing a strenuous schedule for an even dozen speeches in Illinois, Ohio and Indiana—his first program of speaking dates east of the Mississippi river since the beginning of the campaign.

According to those being consulted on the itinerary, there is a possibility that additional places may be sandwiched in between most of the fixed dates.

Today's schedule called for speeches at Waterloo, Sparta and Murphysboro, Ill. Mr. Bryan said his speeches would deal largely with agriculture and labor questions.

BIG RUSHING AT GREEN'S DRUG STORE

Friday and Saturday were banner days at Green's drug store in the square. An hour or more before the doors opened Friday morning, in answer to the full page advertisement carried in The Sun Thursday night, crowds gathered awaiting the opening of the doors. Green's drug store is looking out of business, as the Schultz company, owners of the property, have notified them that they must vacate the premises by Dec. 31st next. All day long Friday and Saturday a seemingly never-ending stream of men and women poured into the store to take advantage of the countless bargains being offered by the firm. Prices of "things you need" were slashed right and left, judging by the way the folks are coming out of the store loaded with articles, the sale was an unqualified success. Again this morning many people gathered early at the store and when the doors opened things began to "hum" and point to a repetition of Friday and Saturday's business. The sale will continue until further notice, and it is to your advantage that you drop into Green's drug store and look things over. You'll surely find something you want and at a price or prices that will astonish you.

BUTLERS WILL PLAY EAST BOSTON OUTFIT

In preparation for the big game with East Boston on the old Fair grounds next Sunday, the fast Butler A.A. football team will hold practice sessions in the Butler school on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. The Butlers are out to keep their slate clean, but realize they have a tough opponent in the East Bostonians who likewise have not been defeated this season. Several former Greater Boston high school stars, as well as a nucleus of United States navy players, will be in the visiting lineup. All the Butlers are in good shape after a lay-off since Columbus day, when the Tremonts of Lawrence fell victims of a terrible Butler onslaught. Sunday's game on the old Fair grounds will get under way at 2:30 o'clock. Arrangements will be made to handle a big crowd.

PONIES DEFEAT THE TIGER A. A. 12 TO 0

The Ponies of Centralville were two touchdowns better than the Tiger A.A. on the first street oval yesterday afternoon, the boys across the bridge winning out by a score of 12 to 0. The game marked the first time this season that the Ponies have stuck up against an eleven of their own weight. In earlier season contests they lost after bitter struggle to the Butler A.A. and the O.M. Cadets but they came back strong yesterday and completely outclassed the Tigers. Mori Riley and Eddie Klutka were the scoring stars. Both played pretty ball from the moment the referee announced the beginning of play. "Chuck" McGowan and Jim Gardner were also butmarks in the Pony defense and added much yardage to the winners' total.

Yet Thomas J. Corbett started the ball rolling by kicking off in the opening period. The Tigers received, but lost the ball on downs, and the Pony offense got into action. Bill Dudley did a good job as referee. The lineups and summary:

LECTURES ON AUTO REPAIRING

The first of a series of eight lectures on automobile repairing for Ford owners, will be given at 7:15 this evening in Coburn hall of the high school by John J. Gildee, head of the Vocational school automobile department, under the auspices of the university extension department. The subjects of the lectures include valve grinding, carburetor adjustment, carbon removing, care of electrical equipment and general repairs.

YOUNG MEN CAUGHT IN GAMBLING RAID

A group of young men were arraigned in district court this morning, and fined $5 each for being present at a game on the Lord's day. The men were arrested in the tenement at 333 Fletcher street yesterday by Sgt. Winn and Officers Conway, Moore and O'Dea, who found them gathered around a card table. Under the ruse of going to get his hat one of the men, Norman P. Welch attempted to escape, but was caught in Cushing street after a thrilling chase.

NOTICE

The party who struck the Ford truck on Aiken street last night was seen by two persons. If not reported in a day or two there will be a warrant against him, B77,756.

ENGINEERMAN BLAMED FOR REAR-END CRASH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Responsibility for the rear-end collision on the New York Central railroad near Savannah, N. Y., August 30, in which 43 persons were injured, today was placed on Engineerman Gibbons of the west-bound colliding train, in a report of the director of the bureau of safety, to the inter-state commerce commission. The director held that Gibbons failed properly to observe and obey black signal indications, adding that had an adequate automatic train control system been in use, the accident would have been prevented.

DISPOSITION OF FIRPO CASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Final action by the labor department of the case of Luis Angel Firpo, against whom deportation proceedings have been brought will await disposition of the case against him in the courts of New York, Assistant Secretary of Labor White announced today. The state department will go ahead with consideration of the record in Firpo's case, but will take no action due to the fact that the labor department holds its own jurisdiction beneath that of the courts.

APPOINTMENT FOR LOWELL GIRL

Miss Alice Chase, daughter of Frederick Chase, city librarian, has been appointed secretary to the chairman of Columbia university, New York city, according to information received by Headmaster Henry H. Harris of the high school this morning. Miss Chase is a graduate of Rogers Hall school, class of 1923, and last June completed a year's course in secretarial training in the commercial department of the high school.

SHOCK NOT FELT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Georgetown university seismograph which registers earthquake shocks from all over the world, failed to give any indication of the tremors reported in North and South Carolina during the night. Father Tondorf was inclined to believe the disturbance was not of seismic origin.

WORLD'S HEAVIEST LITTER

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 20.—A six-months old litter of 15 pigs with a total weight of 3461 pounds, grown in Indiana county, Pennsylvania, stands good chances of being the world's heaviest litter for this year, according to announcement today from the Pennsylvania State Agricultural extension service. The litter belongs to Thomas M. Strong, of Blairsville, and its weight is the highest yet reported in the United States.

Liquor Cases Today in The District Court

Found 100 gallons of alleged wine on the premises. Alton pleaded not guilty to the charge this morning and his case was continued until Oct. 26. His counsel, J. Joseph Hennessy, requested that a sample of the seized goods be analyzed in city hall here, because, he said, the sample sent to the state chemist would probably ferment rapidly and contain a greater degree of alcohol when the case is tried than it did when the seizure was made. His request was allowed, but the state chemist's analysis will be introduced at the trial as well. Alton was one of three liquor cases to come before the court this morning. Samuel Dossard pleaded guilty to illegal keeping and paid a fine of $100. A plea of not guilty to a charge of illegal keeping was entered by Rosario Paquette, who was arrested Saturday night in a restaurant at 730 Lakeview avenue. Paquette's case was continued to Oct. 30.

Sen. Lodge Undergoes Second Operation

formed the initial operation several weeks ago, also was the surgeon for the second operation. The condition of the patient as a whole is regarded as eminently satisfactory. The senator made the trip from Nahant to the hospital Sunday afternoon in his motor car. Since the first operation Senator Lodge has lived quietly at his Nahant home recuperating and gaining strength for the second operation. For the past ten days he had recovered sufficiently to motor about the North Shore. Senator Lodge's secretary also took the opportunity to point out the absolute falsehood of reports that the senator contemplated resigning from the senate. "The report was absolutely without foundation," he said.

AMERICAN TYPE CAPTURES PARIS

It once was the style for Parisian stage queens to capture American audiences, but now the compliment is being returned and beautiful American girls are the toast of France. One of the most recent conquests is that of Estelle Gamble, beautiful young dancer.

SHE WAS BLIND'S "ANGEL"

Mrs. Lewis B. Woodruff, playwright and author, killed in a fall from a second story window of her New York home, was known as an "angel" to the blind. Royalties from one of her books went toward the establishment of the "Lighthouse for the Blind." Artists considered her one of the world's most beautiful women.

The U. S. S. Washington, only partially completed at a cost of more than $20,000,000, will be sunk during a drill practice off Virginia Capes in December. The destruction of the ship is necessary under the terms of the armament conference.

Menus for a Family

Tested by SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Grapes, cereal, thin cream, scrambled eggs with tomatoes, whole wheat toast, sautéed potatoes, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Cream of celery soup, toast sticks, hearts of lettuce, baked Indian pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—Stewed chicken, gravy, mashed potatoes, creamed onions, carrot salad, baked peach pudding with sugar and cream, milk, coffee.

A plain, soft-boiled egg should be served to the child under school age in place of the scrambled eggs for his breakfast. And he will not miss the potatoes, which are a bit trying for very youthful digestions.

Scrambled Eggs With Tomatoes

Five eggs, 1 cup chopped tomatoes, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper.

Parse tomatoes and cut in small pieces to make one cup. Put tomatoes and sugar in frying pan and simmer 10 minutes. Add butter. Beat eggs slightly with a fork, season with salt and pepper and add to tomatoes. Cook, lifting and turning with fork until mixture is thick and firm. Remove at once from hot pan and serve.

By Stephen Hannagan

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The French make some very fine autos and they hold annually a gorgeous auto show in the Grand Palais in Paris and Frenchmen are conspicuous among the speed-freaks in auto races. But as a nation they are miles behind us when it comes to general and popular use of gas-propelled vehicles.

Part of this is probably due to the war and the wreck it left. Part is due to the conservatism of the French peasant farmers and of the shop-keeper class. At any rate, in all France in the present year there are only 876, 383 machines, as against 509 in 1894, 17,107 in 1904 and 107,535 in 1914.

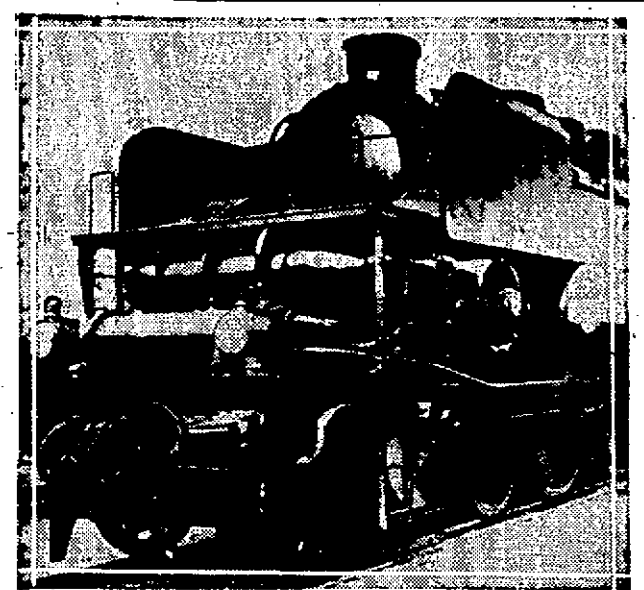

Mayor Hylan and his New York police are not the only ones who are getting themselves up as censors of what people shall read and of what they shall see in the theatres.

Turkey has just shown that she is up to date by having a prosecution against the distinguished Turkish novelist of Constantinople, Hussein Rahmi Bey.

The prosecutor general urged condemnation of the book "Am I Mad?" on the ground that it was detrimental to public morals and could not be read in the family.

The author defended himself on the ground of realism. The court unanimously held that the high moral purpose of the author was to flay present-day Turkish society. It, therefore, dismissed the complaint.

The cocktail has just received two black eyes, one from the English and one from the French. In England a group of doctors recently declared that the cocktail was bad business for the human organism and ridiculed the idea that it was a stimulant of a healthy appetite. The French attack was of a different order. The committee of the Academie Francaise, which is compiling the standard dictionary of the language, had before it the question of admitting the word "cocktail," which is

COMMON SENSE

When a merchant advertises his wares in a newspaper, he does not appeal to the paper, but to its readers. He solicits the patronage of those readers whether he agrees with the policy of the paper or not.

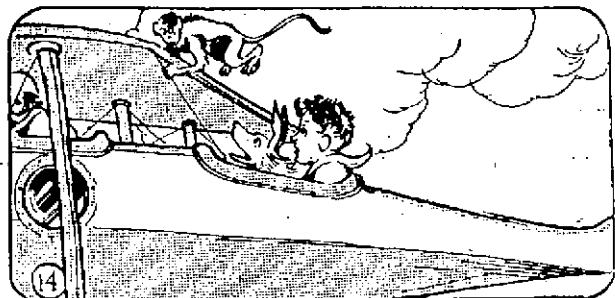

To refrain from advertising in a paper of wide circulation simply because he does not agree with the editor on all public questions, is not using common sense. It is a form of business suicide. It has sent many short-sighted business men into bankruptcy. A dealer might as well put a sign over his store notifying all who do not think as he does that he does not want their patronage. Readers of newspaper advertisements know when and where their patronage is welcome.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 5

On through space they soared and Jack was enjoying the flight immensely. His hand grew tired from holding on to Flop's tail and he finally let go. Instantly the little monkey jumped off of his master's shoulder and scampered out on the back of the plane. Jack was scared for fear the monkey would fall.

"Come back here," he shouted. But the little monkey just swung onto a wire of the plane with his tail -- and jumped up and down. He was really enjoying the stiff breeze that was whipping his little body. Flip, in the meantime, got up on his hunches and stick his head out of the plane.

Suddenly the aviator turned the machine into a spiral dive and Jack and Flop both ducked down into their little bunny hole. Flop, however, was taken by complete surprise and he skidded down the plane and fell right in on top of the aviator. But no harm was done. (Continued.)

"OH, LOOK!" cried Nancy. "THERE IS SOMEONE BECKONING TO US FROM THAT APPLE-TREE."

"Yes," said Daddy Gander to the twins as they rode along through the sky on his magic dust-pan. "The tin rooster was right. There isn't any doubt that the Maiden-All-Forlorn and the Tattered Man have gone to housekeeping in the House-That-Jack-Built."

"Oh, look!" cried Nancy. "There is someone beckoning to us from that apple tree. Let's stop and see who it is."

So Daddy Gander said, "Whoa!" to his dust pan and it stopped in the tip-topmost branch of the apple tree. "Why, hello," said Nick. "It's the apple-tree fairy who runs the elevator up to the sky."

"I'm glad you haven't forgotten me," said the apple-tree fairy. "I thought I heard someone talking about the House-That-Jack-Built. Was it you?"

"It was I," said Daddy Gander. "Do you know anything about it?"

"Do I, well I should say so," remarked the apple-tree fairy. "I used to live in an apple tree on Pippin Hill where Jack and Jill and Mrs. John live. Indeed, I was there when Jack built his house. I know all about it. It's got the cutest porch and --"

"Oh, I mean do you know where it's gone?" asked Daddy Gander. "It's lost."

"An' wings and snail's horns," cried the little fairy in surprise. "You don't say so!"

"Oh, yes," said Nancy. "It's gone and we're hunting for it. The tin rooster on the barn and Higgledy Piggledy the black hen said that they thought the Maiden-All-Forlorn and the Tattered Man had gone to housekeeping in it."

"I don't believe it," said the apple-tree fairy. "They wouldn't do such a thing. Wait a minute! I've an idea. Was there a wind-storm thereabouts when the house disappeared?"

"Not that I know of," said Daddy Gander. "But then it's pretty hard to tell sometimes. We never can be sure in Mother Goose Land whether it's a wind storm or Poppleton Bun, the miller-man, snoring. Why?"

"I was just thinking," said the apple-tree fairy. "That up on the seventeenth floor of the sky there is a place called 'The Department of Lost Things.' It's for the wind-storm things."

"Whatever are you talking about?" cried Nick. "What wind-storm things?"

"Oh, pigs, and baby-earts, and haystacks and churns, and automobiles and houses and things like that, that blow away in tornadoes. A tornado is a wind-storm," said the apple-tree fairy. "They have to blow somewhere, don't they? So they blow up to the seventeenth floor of the sky and we fairies sort them out. It's quite a village."

"But how could Jack's house be blown up there when nothing else was?" asked Nancy.

"O, easily!" said the fairy. "A tornado is just a wind cloud that looks like a kite with a tail. The tail comes along and -- whizz! -- it can blow you right off the map and leave the person you were talking to without so much as pushing an eyelash out of place."

"Well then," said Daddy Gander, "We'll go there at once and look."

"Just leave your magic dust-pan here," said the apple-tree fairy. "I'll run you up in my elevator as quick as 'Jack Robinson would wink his eye.'"

LOWELL EAGLES PLAN JUBILEE ON OPENING OF NEW HOME

National and State Officers of Order to Come Here
On Nov. 12—Committee to Turn Over New Building to Officers of Aerie

Lowell aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, with a membership of 2817 strong, is planning for a big time on the night of Wednesday, November 12, when the new home of the organization in Gorham street is to be turned over to the aerie by the building committee. Charles C. Schiavo is chairman of the building committee. Under this committee the property formerly known as Lincoln hall has been changed over into one of the most modern of club buildings, remodeling being carried on throughout the structure and no expense spared in furnishing the rooms to meet the requirements of the large membership. A big entertainment is planned and in addition speakers high in the ranks of the order will come on to witness the ceremonial in which Chairman Schiavo of the building committee will formally turn over to the aerie, through President Thomas F. Quinn, the new home.

THOMAS F. QUINN,
President, Lowell Eagles.

Conrad H. Mann, managing organizer and financial advisor of the aerie, will be the principal speaker. District Grand President James Gallagher of Bechtelmeier will also come, attended by Grand Inside Guard John Lyons of Watertown. All of the officers of the Massachusetts State aerie as well as officers and members of the aeries in surrounding municipalities will also be present.

Lowell Aerie of Eagles, organized in 1902 under the leadership of the late F. A. M. Tobin, realizes a long-cherished ambition in the occupancy of its new home, owned by the aerie. The organization has grown rapidly in numbers to its present strong membership and financial solidity.

George H. McCabe, oldest living past president of the aerie, who assumed office in 1903, has promised President Quinn that he will take a hand in the big ceremonial planned for November 12. James T. Doyle, conductor under the McCabe regime, will also be prominent in the night's activities. It was under the McCabe regime in 1903 that John M. Hogan, another charter member of the aerie, was elected to secretary, which office he has occupied with zeal and distinction since that time.

NEW SYSTEM FOR MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRY

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Motorists living in Lowell and vicinity, who have used the local registration office in use of the local registration office for obtaining their number plates for 1925, will find their numbers ranging from 150,001 to 165,000. If they desire a number of only five figures—that is, under 100,000, they must mail their applications to the Boston office.

Another innovation adopted this year by the registry is the rendering of all numbers under 10,000, the two-three and four-figure plates. Any motorist having such a number this year should have received already an application blank, bearing his number, and informing him that by returning it to the Boston office before the first day of November he may retain the same number for 1925. Hereafter, only the numbers below 5000 have been reserved.

The plan of sending all numbers below 100,000 by mail has been worked out in an effort to reduce the rush at Commonwealth pier. It is much cheaper for the motorist, and in most cases for the registrar, to have his plates sent through the mail, but thousands have not yet learned the lesson, with the result that annually there is a rush which almost swamps the clerks at Commonwealth pier, and every applicant, even though he arrives Dec. 31, insists upon having a new number. By eliminating all the low numbers from the counter at the pier, it is believed that a large volume of the business will go into the mails.

In explanation of the new system, Charles R. Gilley, chief clerk at the registry, has issued this statement: "The department wishes particularly to impress upon the public that no distinction can be paid to requests for low and special numbers, because these requests have become so numerous that they are a positive nuisance and have interfered seriously with the re-registration work."

Registration fees involved at the Boston office or at any of the branch offices are required to be immediately entered on cash sheets, and the numbered line of which the entry is made determines the number of the registration plate assigned. It should be obvious that with the work of registering 500,000 machines, any deviation from the system would not only cause difficulty in recording and accounting for fees, but would slow up delivery of plates tremendously, and therefore cause inconvenience to every applicant.

On Jan. 1, 1924, approximately 300,000 cars had been registered. This season probably 400,000 persons will want to run their cars on New Year's day. It is hoped that every owner who plans to use his car on that day, will avoid, for his own convenience, coming to the registry during the last week preceding New Year. During that week it is probable that applicants will be obliged to wait in line, perhaps as long as two hours, in order to be served. The convenient method of obtaining plates is to apply, either in person or by mail, prior to Dec. 25. During the current month, the registry will attend only to the reserved plates and the dealer plates. Next month, beginning Nov. 3, general re-registration will begin. This will be carried on at the main registry at Commonwealth pier, and at the nine branches, in Quincy, Lynn, Fall River, Lowell, Lawrence, Springfield, New Bedford, Worcester, and Springfield. In addition it is planned to open four more branches during November, the places tentatively selected being Brockton, Fitchburg, Haverhill and Greenfield.

The registry will not send out blank applications by mail to anybody except the holders of numbers below 10,000. But arrangements have been made so that blanks can be obtained without trouble in many different places. No change whatever has been made in the blank, so that those issued last year may be used just as well as new blanks. Supplies will be placed in all the branches, at police stations, with automobile clubs, dealers, garages and several banks and insurance companies will supply them. By the new arrangement outlined above, each branch registry will have specified series of plates, and by remembering the aerie assigned to each branch it will be possible to tell approximately from what part of the

EDUCATION IN AUSTRIA

Time is Ripe to Enforce
Canon Law Says Chancellor Seipel

VIENNA, Oct. 20.—Chancellor Seipel has caused considerable commotion, especially in educational circles, by observing in the course of a public speech that the time was ripe to breach the question of enforcing the canon law in question of education in Austria. He was not prepared to admit that parents had the right to decide in which school their children should be sent; that right belonged exclusively to the church.

Commenting on the speech, the Arbeiter Zeitung asserts that the chancellor is aiming to convert Austria into a papal state, ruled by the archbishop of Vienna.

M'ADOO DOING UTMOST TO HELP DAVIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Although prevented by illness from carrying out plans to make an extensive speaking tour in behalf of the democratic ticket, William G. M'Adoo informed Senator Swanson, of Virginia, head of the democratic speakers' bureau, in a letter published today, that through messages to friends he was doing his "utmost to help the cause."

The letter, written at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where he recently submitted to an operation, asserted that "the alternative to Davis is Coe, bridge, reaction and chaos." The election of John W. Davis and Charles W. Bryan, he added, offers the only chance to "purify the government and to accomplish the reforms demanded by the people."

"It was the first extended statement on the campaign since the democratic national convention. 'If the forces of reaction represented by the Coolidge administration succeed in November,' he said, 'it will be due solely to division in the ranks of the progressive and liberal forces in America. It is a great pity that the progressives led by Mr. Follette and Wheeler and the democrats led by Davis and Bryan cannot present a united front against the common enemy.'"

Two important changes have been made in the 1925 plates. The background, which on the 1924 plate is a black, has been changed to black. The figures and letters remaining black. This is in accordance with a policy inaugurated last year of changing the ground color annually in order that there may be less opportunity for using plates fraudulently.

The other change, also intended to discourage fraud, is the arrangement of the numeral of the year. This year the abbreviation and the numeral are grouped close together under the registration number thus—"Mass. 1924." On the 1925 plates the "Mass." will be in the lower left hand corner and the "1925" in the lower right hand corner. The purpose of this change is to prevent automobile thieves and others intent upon disguising a car from cutting off or bending over the plates so as to remove from view the first or the last number. This plan has been worked in the past, if it is attempted to bend the plate, the fraud will be easily observable because the state abbreviation of the year numeral will have to be mutilated. The plates will be the same size as this year, but the numerals will look a little different because of a change in the method by which they are stamped out at the state printer, where all the Massachusetts plates are made.

Robbed Girl of $500 Ring
and Took Watch Valued
at $400 From Escort

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Three armed men, young and well dressed, forced their way into the West Side apartment of Miss Helen Haywood early today and robbed her of a platinum diamond ring, valued at $500 and took a watch valued at $400 from Alfred Hannon, a guest. The actions of the gunmen were similar in many respects to those of the men who recently robbed Miss Edith Boho, model, and an escort, of jewelry valued at $50,000.

The men, entering the apartment house shortly after Miss Haywood had returned home, forced the elevator operator to take them to Miss Haywood's apartment. Purloining an entrance there, they held up Miss Haywood and three guests, but took only Miss Haywood's ring and Hannon's watch. Jewelry to a considerable value is believed to have been in the apartment at the time.

CHINA WANTS, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—A fierce battle raged throughout yesterday on the Shanhaikwan front, Chang Tso-Lin's Manchurian forces making continual attacks, which, however, were repulsed by the Chinese (Peking government) troops. Wu Pei-Fu's forces remained on the defensive about Chiumen, where reinforcements arrived to participate in an enveloping movement which is expected to bear important results.

The situation today on the Shanhaikwan front is quiet, but the Manchurian lines beyond Shanhaikwan are under bombardment from the sea.

NAVAL FORCES ARE LANDED

Chinese Troops Continue
Looting and Robbing Citizens in Canton

British and French Armed
Forces Landed to Protect
Foreign Concession

CANTON, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—While Chinese troops continued looting and robbing citizens here today, British and French armed naval forces were landed to protect the foreign concession and boats plying between Hong Kong and Canton made extra trips to carry persons fleeing from Canton.

The naval forces put ashore today brought with them machine guns with which to protect bridges in the foreign concession. British military forces also are arriving from Hong Kong. Clashes of the rival factions and the expected arrival of Cheng Kwing-Ming with a fully-armed force of 15,000 are causing alarm. The naval volunteer corps, whose difference with the so-called "Red army" of Chinese laborers precipitated the present trouble in Canton, is concentrating its forces at Shihing, west of Canton, with a view to making a last effort to expel the troops from this city.

The local British consul has been accused of harboring Chan Lim Pak, head of the Merchants' Volunteer corps, and other officials of that organization within the foreign concession.

HIGHWAY CONDITIONS SOMEWHAT IMPROVED

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Although the number of deaths from motor vehicle accidents increased last week to 19, this being six more than in the previous week, in all other respects the figures indicate highway conditions somewhat improved.

Only 104 persons were convicted of operating while under the influence of liquor, this being a decrease of two from the record of the preceding week. In the matter of licenses and registrations suspended or revoked, the number was 315, a reduction of 33 from the week before.

Of the liquor convictions, 90 were in lower courts, and 14 in the superior court. Of the 14 in the higher court, four were committed to jail. In the lower courts, five persons were convicted a second time of operating while under the influence of liquor, in which case the law makes mandatory a jail sentence. Two of these, however, were allowed to pay a fine, and the remaining three, pending from jail sentences. Seventeen persons appeared from jail sentences imposed in the lower courts.

Of the 315 licenses and registrations taken away during the week by the registrar of motor vehicles, 19 were because of liquor; 23 for operating recklessly, or in such a manner as to endanger the public; 11 for failing to wear a seat belt; 11 for failing to follow an accident; 12 for operating without authority of the owner; 10 for two overspeed convictions; 23 for improper equipment; and 101 because the registrar considered them improper persons to be allowed to operate.

Of the 19 persons killed, 13 were adults, and six children.

TO RESUME PROBE OF "SLUSH FUND" CHARGE IN WASHINGTON

Chairman Borah and Other Members of Senate Investigating Committee Leave Chicago for Washington
—To Resume Investigation Tomorrow

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—William B. Borah, chairman, and the other members of the special senate committee investigating campaign contributions and expenditures were enroute to Washington today after having started their initial inquiry here. Tomorrow in the senate office building the committee will resume its investigation of reports that a huge republican slush fund is being raised for use in doubtful states, although the democratic national committee's collections, expenditures and proposed budget for the remaining days of the campaign and expenditures of the La Follette forces also will be brought under the committee's scrutiny.

The committee will have as fresh material the statement of William Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, issued here last night, that one hundred La Follette leaders at Milwaukee Sept. 9 decided to raise

$500,000 in that state alone to further the presidential candidacy of the senior Wisconsin senator, and the assertion from Madison, Wis., last night of Eric Onstad, La Follette leader, that Wisconsin had contributed only $40,000. Mr. Onstad said there had been an announcement that the large fund would be raised, but it "was more enthusiastic than actual facts justified."

His statement, that of Chairman Butler, welcomed the investigation and promised co-operation. Upon resuming tomorrow at Washington the committee will center its attention upon the La Follette charges of a republican slush fund. Senator La Follette will be represented by Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, Walsh has sought the opportunity of cross-examining witnesses. He expects to have associated with him Samuel Untermyer of New York, a supporter of the democratic national ticket.

FIRE DRILL TODAY AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

A fire drill was conducted at the high school this morning by Major Walter Jewett, director of safety in the public schools, and Headmaster Henry H. Harris, and the school was emptied of every student and teacher in exactly two minutes. This time is 11 seconds in excess of last year's record, but was very satisfactory owing to the fact that there are about 300 more students in the school this year than there were last year.

The drill was held shortly after the beginning of the second period, at 9:30 o'clock, and was unexpected by both students and teachers. Despite the fact that it was the first drill of the year, the students and teachers fled out of the proper exits without any confusion.

WILL MEET HOWE HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN

The question had been brought before the court by Sam Michaelson and others, who had been employed by the Chicago, St. Paul and

CORBETT SPEAKS

Lyon Street School TUESDAY NIGHT, 7.45

John J. Townsend, 47 Cedar St.

Trial of the six actions of tort involving $180,000, brought by 14-year-old Joseph Gouveia and his father, Antonio, against Edward J. Michael J. and Jennie M. Murphy, all of Lowell, as result of an automobile accident at Gorham street and Bent's court on Oct. 14, 1922, got under way in superior civil court here today before Judge Frederic B. Greenhalgh and a jury. Each of the three defendants is sued in the sum of $50,000 by the boy and in the sum of $10,000 by the father.

Atty. James M. Hoy of Boston appears for the plaintiffs, with James J. Karwin and James E. Reilly for the defendants.

Identifying testimony was given this forenoon by Will Boudins, photographer, who took several pictures at the scene of the accident, and by Fred W. Jordan, civil engineer, who drew up a chart of the street locations in the vicinity, including distances from certain points to designated points in Gorham street. The photographs and chart were put in as exhibits.

Joseph A. Meehan, M. D., testified concerning reports kept at St. John's hospital, giving a complete record of the case of Joseph Gouveia, his injuries, treatment, and progress. He also gave an x-ray demonstration and showed the films taken of the boy's head, pointing out the location of the skull fracture. The films also were put in as exhibits. The diagnosis of the boy's condition specified a fractured skull as the major injury.

Miss Helen M. Brady, a teacher at the Ames street school, offered testimony designed to show that in class the Gouveia boy was a normal student and made fair progress in the mastery of the English language.

The case will be resumed at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

DESTROY FEAR

"Don't do this and don't do that," were admonitions of the mothers of Angtown, as well as of any other part of the world.

It is quite natural that a mother should warn a child against various dangers, but to put definite fear into the heart of the child is something quite different.

The proper procedure is to explain carefully the conditions of a thing which a child needs to fear—whether it be automobiles or disease. And it should be a sense of caution rather than fear that is implanted.

The offices of nerve specialists are crowded with cases of "fear neurosis." These are people with nameless fears and when their minds are trailed back to childhood it is frequently found that nameless fears were implanted in them for years.

Teaching of caution is instinctive. It is to be found in the lower animals, but the parent should be most careful not to confuse it with fear. For fears are terrible things and lead to depression and general unfitness for enjoyment.

Don't frighten them with fears and threats of the bogey-man.

Don't frighten them with fears and threats.

Instruct them, and there will be no need for threats and fears.

FORMAL OPENING OF FIDLER'S BOSTON LADIES' OUTFITTERS NEW STORE

Wonderful Business Expansion Under Progressive Management of Charles S. Fidler and Son—"The Store Beautiful" Proper Designation for New Building

Fidler's Boston Ladies' Outfitters, under the management of Charles S. Fidler and his son, better known as "Cousin Cy," has realized the dream of years in the formal opening of its newly built and furnished department store at 22-100 Merrimack street. The expert merchandising experience of the senior member of the firm has made possible this wonderful expansion of the business. Mr. Fidler's long experience in the manufacturer's line has also served him well in his recent achievement. The junior member of the firm, now general manager of the entire establishment, is also well versed along buying and selling lines, this fact being made plain by the expansion of the business within a comparatively short time.

"The store beautiful" is the proper designation of the newly enlarged building which houses four floors of merchandise at the right prices. Its new corner front avenue well for the interior of the building which contains immense display corridors, well-lighted and advantageously suited to the showing of the articles offered the buying public at the lowest possible price.

The store ten years ago by the senior member of the firm was nothing compared to the store of today.

With but three salesladies on the force, and selling only coats, suits, dresses and millinery, Charles S. Fidler and his son, better known as "Cousin Cy," has realized the dream of years in the formal opening of its newly built and furnished department store at 22-100 Merrimack street. The expert merchandising experience of the senior member of the firm has made possible this wonderful expansion of the business. Mr. Fidler's long experience in the manufacturer's line has also served him well in his recent achievement. The junior member of the firm, now general manager of the entire establishment, is also well versed along buying and selling lines, this fact being made plain by the expansion of the business within a comparatively short time.

One of the features of the new store is the fine set of display windows. These windows, beautifully decorated with the excellent showing of goods in them presents a veritable fairland of gorgeous gowns, cloaks, millinery and novelty items. Mr. Fidler and his son, better known as "Cousin Cy," has realized the dream of years in the formal opening of its newly built and furnished department store at 22-100 Merrimack street. The expert merchandising experience of the senior member of the firm has made possible this wonderful expansion of the business. Mr. Fidler's long experience in the manufacturer's line has also served him well in his recent achievement. The junior member of the firm, now general manager of the entire establishment, is also well versed along buying and selling lines, this fact being made plain by the expansion of the business within a comparatively short time.

As a special feature of the opening, the windows represent a gala display of evening gowns and wraps, midday's most cherished fashions. Handsome Spanish shawls which today are quite the thing in society's circle are also on display, and vary from the deep rose to the palest pink, with delicate fringes to the purest white, decorated in pastel shades. The main feature of the display is the centre window which is arranged with handsome silk yard goods and novelty jewelry. In the centre front is a miniature old English frigate sailing on the water, while days when silks and lace were foremost in window decoration. In the middle street section, which was until recently devoted to the ready-to-wear goods, has been opened a new yard goods department where dress goods of silk, velvet, woolen and cotton are offered as well as made-up articles of linen. Draperies also find a corner in this well equipped innovation.

The ready-to-wear department has been removed to the second floor and the extensive line of quality goods, including coats, suits, dresses and millinery, which is offered on this floor, is really astounding to the purchaser as the field of choice is so broad.

It is well established fact in the Fidler concern that they carry what is wanted. Velvets in the new tunic, fur-bordered design; silks, beaded and brocaded; and the very popular day-dress and evening gown are included in the line of ready-to-wear goods. Goals of velvets, Kerami, suedine, making, fashion, chamouette, new-zella and many other materials offer to the thrifty shopper a wide choice of materials. Sizes for the miss, the matron and the stout woman are in the lot, and all at a reasonable price.

The new gift, lamp and toy shop, situated on the fourth floor presents a variety of picture of novelty designs. Bridge lamps, floor lamps, table lamps, are among the large assortment of pretty "extras" so necessary in the properly furnished home. Gifts galore, most prepossessing in their appearance, fairly shriek out their beauty. The toy shop, always an asset in a department store is completely furnished and contains everything in the line of toys from games to automobile races.

The children's department, on the third floor is elaborate in its offerings of dainty articles for the "pride of the home." Latest fashions for baby, really a most important thing in babyland today, are shown to advantage and include the prettiest and latest babies' wear available. And a word about the millinery department. The director, the dressy and the hat for street wear are offered in this department. All the popular colors and stylish trimmings make the Fidler millinery shop a most popular trade mart.

The executive offices and the window decorator's studio are situated on the second floor and are easily accessible to the business man and woman.

Build up entirely on the policy of quality goods and proper prices the firm of Fidler's Boston Ladies Outfitters today stands high on the list of first class department stores.

2-WAY TESTS MORE CERTAIN OF SUCCESS

By N.E.A. Service
NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Reports from amateurs and broadcasters of long distance communication greater than ever before recorded point to successful outcome of the two-way international broadcasting tests to be conducted during the week of November 24 to 30.

From the American Radio Relay league comes word that W. B. Wagner of San Pedro, Calif., succeeded in communicating both ways with Frank D. Bell of Wellington, New Zealand over a distance of 8000 air miles. The previous world's record, established by Carlos Braggio of Bern, Argentina, was 6400 miles.

For this feat, Wagner wins the Australian beaming offered to the first American amateur to establish communication with Australia.

K. J. Blodman of Long Beach, Calif., also got into communication with Australia, only half an hour later.

Broadcasting station KGO, at Oakland, Calif., reports having been heard in New Zealand, Australia, France and clear across to Japan during its international tests conducted early in the month of August 30.

Broadcasting stations in the east daily are reported heard in England and France, while occasional reports come from American fans who have heard 250 and other famous British stations.

All these instances point to most successful international radio week ever attempted, say its sponsors.

British stations are expected to attempt at reception in America of concerts they will rebroadcast from the stations in France, Germany, Holland and Switzerland. If they are received here, the occasion will truly be an international affair.

RADIO BROADCASTING
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Conditions were announced today by the department of commerce under which licenses will be issued on a strictly experimental basis for the use in radio broadcasting of power up to 5000 watts.

The conditions were drafted in line with recommendation of the national radio conference that general increase in power of 1000 watts was desirable in all stations to overcome static and give better service to listeners. Super-power stations having 25,000 to 50,000 watts are not considered in the plan, and each station taking out an experimental license will be considered as a separate entity in view of varying local conditions.

HE PAYS!

Station WEAF is said to collect toll of $1,000 every time S. L. Rothafel, better known to radio fans as "Roxy," goes on the air. Every Sunday night, Roxy pays that sum for the privilege of broadcasting his Capitol Theater program, through WEAF, WCAP and WJAB.

"WHO PAYS" NO LONGER A PROBLEM

By ISRAEL KLEIN
N.E.A. Service Radio Editor
Advertising is making the new business of broadcasting a profitable undertaking.

Even from the start, it seems, broadcasters generally have found the sale of advertising time a most profitable way of killing two birds with the same stone—driving the entertainment to its listeners without cost and more than paying for the maintenance of their stations. In fact, broadcasters have been coming out ahead in the annual accounting of advertising income and expenses.

No promising has this business of radio advertising become that the question, "Who shall pay for broadcasting?" is generally considered answered. Advertisers are paying and in a most remunerative manner.

An idea of the results obtained from radio advertising may be gleaned from a rough estimate of the business done by the leader in this field, Station WEAF, controlled by the American Telephone & Telegraph company in New York, is the pioneer in broadcasting advertisements.

Indirect Reference
It is a principle of advertising, a kind that prohibits the soliciting of direct mention of advertisers or products, but requires only a casual reference to a name included in what is apparently the evening's entertainment.

For this mere mention, station WEAF, for a total of $100 for every 10 minutes the advertiser is on the air, and some advertisers have been known to pay $500 an hour.

And WEAF, being the pioneer in this field, is so pressed for time by agencies seeking to broadcast their products or propaganda that even two hours a night is a conservative estimate of its daily advertising allowance.

That other broadcasters who permit advertising are not losing in money by a residue of the income and expenses during the year.

No Loss Shown
The cost of a modern class B radio station is about $60,000. Its upkeep averages around $25,000 a year.

Those broadcasters who permit advertising, outside of WEAF, get an average of $100 an hour, at the rate of about two hours a night for six nights in the week. On this basis the income runs up to $2,400 annually. Not much of a business, of course, figuring on this low basis. But broadcasting is not intended as a profit-bringing business by most stations on the air. It is the means by which radio manufacturers, dealers, newspapers and others on the air may advertise themselves over a wider area.

If a method is reached by means of which all expenses for this advertising can be covered, and if there is a little surplus at the end of the year—so much the better.

Yet this is only the beginning. When a man starts into a new business and breaks even at the end of the first year, or even five years, he considers himself lucky. Here is a business in its infancy that is more than breaking even.

What it will spread to in later years may be estimated from this.

HIGH INCREASE IN RADIO ON FARMS
A special survey made by the U. S. department of agriculture recently shows a surprising increase in radio on farms.

It is estimated there are more than 350,000 receiving sets in the rural districts, as against 100,000 a year ago.

The radio market news service, to which may be attributed a large part of this increase, has been developed rapidly during the past three years until now it is possible for farmers in practically all parts of the country to receive daily market quotations and reports on agricultural conditions.

SYMPHONY ON AIR
The St. Louis Symphony orchestra is preparing to broadcast 15 concerts from the Odeon, at St. Louis, through station KSD. The first concert will be broadcast on November 3.

INFORMATION BUREAUS
Besides being broadcasting stations, the large transmitting studios must be information bureaus. For all sorts of uncharted queries come in from all parts of the country.

MOON SEEN TO AFFECT RECEPTION

By N.E.A. Service
HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 15.—The moon, in its various phases, is believed to influence radio reception.

Observations made by amateurs and reporters to headquarters of the American Radio Relay league here point to this explanation for the different degrees of static encountered at certain times.

At present the only observations in this regard, have been on European long wave signals, since there have been better receiving conditions on this side of the Atlantic than in England. Further experiments, however, are being conducted on shorter wavelengths directed eastward.

According to observations so far recorded, while long wave signals were traveling west across the Atlantic, had static conditions prevailed while the new moon was up, or the moon was in its last quarter. Signals were fairly although forso that at any other times.

The best signals came across while the moon was in its first quarter or in full phase. The least static occurred during the full moon phase, while the moon in its first quarter seemed to produce a little more static.

These observations did not take into account local disturbances, such as thunderstorms, nor such phenomena as fading, although very little of this occurs on long waves.

MOON SEEN TO AFFECT RECEPTION

By N.E.A. Service
HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 15.—The moon, in its various phases, is believed to influence radio reception.

Observations made by amateurs and reporters to headquarters of the American Radio Relay league here point to this explanation for the different degrees of static encountered at certain times.

At present the only observations in this regard, have been on European long wave signals, since there have been better receiving conditions on this side of the Atlantic than in England. Further experiments, however, are being conducted on shorter wavelengths directed eastward.

RADIO FOR AIR CONTROL
Czechoslovakia is installing radio in the air service. The Kbelly airdrome has a radio controlling station to keep airplanes from Prague and other cities in touch with weather changes and other important information.

ACID RADIO TUBE
A German inventor has revived the idea of a detector tube filled with a colloidal liquid, an acid whose particles, finer than dust, are supposed to act like electrons in carrying the current through the tube. The tube also contains the usual three electrodes.

THE VOICE FROM WOO
Miss Val McLaughlin is the "Bandman" at WOC, [the Davenport] (Ia.) station of the Palmer School of Chiropractic. She is one of the most popular announcers in the country, her experience at chautauques and lecture platforms especially fitting her for the role.

MUST BE TOLERATED
Radio broadcast listeners must keep on tolerating static. Although it has been found that there is less static with short wavelengths, it has not yet been found practicable to build receivers for shorter than the present broadcasting minimum. So static must stay a while.

REGULAR OCCURRENCE
Station KDKA has been conducting regular daily broadcasts to Buenos Aires and England. These transmissions are being sent on short waves and a power input of seven kilowatts.

RECORD TO DOUBLE
Estimates of radio business during the coming fall and winter point to an aggregate of $350,000 in sales. This is about twice the record of the corresponding season last year.

AFTER MIDNIGHT
French amateurs who want to test their apparatus are not permitted to transmit on their allotted short waves before midnight. He can transmit at any time on wavelengths between 150 and 200 meters.

DECEIT
There was a nerve specialist in Anytown who was fond of telling a story about a woman who came to him for consultation.

When she had been a child, the psychiatrist learned, she developed the habit of "getting sick" whenever there was anything hard to be tackled at school.

On the occasion of a particular arithmetic quiz the child realized that she had been negligent in her studies and was likely to "not pass." So she made an excuse to her mother. Three months before this child had been quite ill. Memory of this illness and its escapes from duties occurred to her and she pretended to be again troubled.

It worked. She escaped.

Now at this period of her life the "attack" was intentional and premeditated. But continuous use of the same device to get out of perplexing problems resulted in the "sickness" being registered by the "unconscious mind."

In later years the sickness would bob up handily whenever any difficulty was encountered. By this time the woman did not realize that the whole thing was not sickness at all, but a form of defense built up through the years and now seeming to be a reality.

Such cases are numerous and should cause parents to watch carefully the actions of their children lest they develop conditions similar to that here described.

LOEW'S MALLTO

Miss Mae Busch, who enacts the title role in "A Woman Who Sinned," which will be shown at Loew's Mallto all this week, starting today, is a veritable fashion show by herself. The gowns worn by Miss Busch in "A Woman Who Sinned," present a splendid array of costly and elaborate gowns. The gown she wears in the latest creation of an exclusive shop in Paris, in on way are they reminiscent of suggestive of anything in midday's wardrobe that have ever been shown to feminine eyes before. Although Miss Busch is the possessor of a myriad of expensive gowns, at no time is her histrionic ability overshadowed by her costly clothes. The story of "A Woman Who Sinned" is from the pen of F. B. Fox. In addition to writing the story, for which he was offered $50,000, Fox directed and produced the picture. A number of elaborate sets are shown in the picture, including one interior set that cost more than $500 and a big revival scene employing nearly 2500 extras. Miss Busch is the featured player, supported by Irene Rich, Morgan Wallace, Rex Lewis and other noted film stars. The story itself deals with a minister's wife who is placed in an embarrassing position by the actions of an unscrupulous man. Rather than return and bring disgrace to her husband and her own life, she lets her husband believe she has lost her life in a storm and eventually goes with the man who has wronged her. Time passes and she is brought face to face with her son who has gained a reputation as the "boy evangelist." At this point of the story, the minister's wife is in a most dramatic situation that has ever been

"What am I bid for this pearl of paradise who outshines the fairest of the East?" is the question that the young English maid of gentle breeding listens to the droning voice of the auctioneer and the shrill clamorous cries of the Moslem bidders, secretly realizing she actually was being sold as a slave in a public market. The above word picture is taken from Rafael Sabatini's greatest photograph story, "The Sea Hawk," which is playing this week at the Strand. It describes a Moorish auction block, and is but one of the hundred or more tense scenes enacted in this truly wonderful picture in which the greatest double feature cast are seen in their best screen efforts. Words fail to make the proper impression concerning the real worth of this great screen drama. It has everything that a big picture is expected to contain, and many other commendable features that rank it the genuine leader of the year in picture production. It's great from every picture angle. Lowell people, undoubtedly, will acclaim it the best just as every other theatre centre of the country did, where it was shown. It is being shown three times daily. Don't miss it.

The world-famous wrestlers appear as galley slaves in this dramatic narrative. Constantin Romanoff, Hackenschmidt and the "Terrible Swede," all internationally famous for their strength and agility on the mat, worked for several weeks as "slaves" in the big Lloyd drama to keep in condition between matches. Also at Camp Lloyd on Santa Catalina Island, where 700 principals, extras and technical assistants to Mr. Lloyd made their headquarters during the filming of sea scenes, the famous trio participated in various bouts for the benefit of the others, one match between Romanoff and Hackenschmidt going an hour and fifty-seven minutes without a fall.

MERRIMACK SQUARE

mac Square theatre the first half of the week, Gloria Swanson adds new laurels to her screen interpretations by showing her ability as a mimic. In one of the scenes in the picture which shows a guy party in a New York sculptor's studio Miss Swanson does an impersonation of Charlie Chaplin that has been the talk of the studio. The impersonation of this bit of mimicry in the picture came about quite by accident. One day after a scene Miss Swanson was clowning on the side-lines and somebody handed her a derby hat. "I'll do a Chaplin for you," she told Allan Dwan, and after securing a crepe-hair moustache, she performed so much like the redoubtable comedian that it was agreed that she do the stunt in the picture. The comic attraction is "Welcome Stranger," a whimsical humorous story of the "Potash and Perlmutter" type, with Dore Davidson and Florence Vidor in the leading roles. Comedy and the latest international news round out the bill. Four performances of "Manhandled," the feature, are being given daily. Women patrons are urged to attend the matinees to avoid the crowds at night.

CROWN THEATRE
The comedy delight of the year is "Happiness," the second motion picture made by Laurette Taylor for Metro, which is at the Crown today and Tuesday. Miss Taylor is simply ravishing as a happy-go-lucky little shop-girl who brings the joy of life into a home made colorless by too much wealth. Her personality shines from the screen to the audience like a star, and is as irresistible to those who need treatment for the blues and other nervous ailments. The picture was taken from the play by J. Hartley Manners, and the author himself made the screen adaptation and the picture. Chester Lorne was the photographer. A fine supporting cast includes Pat O'Malley,

RED PEPPER HEAT BREAKS BAD CHEST COLDS, OVER NIGHT

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the stinging heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles"—Adv.

Hedda Hopper, Cyril Chadwick and others.

A. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Clarence Oliver and George Olin will appear as the headliners at the A. F. Keith theatre, this week, in the fascinating comedy of pathos called "Wire Collect." Usually comedy is humor, but this one is a delightful blend of humor and heart interest. Billy McDermott, the gifted tramp specialist, will tell just what happened when Corey led his famous march to Washington, and Corinne and Dick Hunter will turn out one of the most attractive of dancing acts. They come from the big musical comedy shows, where they have made distinct hits. Vales and Carson will present "Get the Soaked," comedy and music, and Lois Bennett, a songstress from California, with Muriel Pollock, accompanist, will deliver over a high class musical act. White and LaFont are comedy acrobats. The week's picture will be the howling comedy, "Racing Luck" with Monty Blue in the big role.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The Stanley James Stock plays this week offer to Lowell the greatest bill ever given here in stock. It is "The First Year," clean comedy on the first year of married life, written by Frank Craven who originally played the leading role with Miss Roberta Arnold as co-star. This show ran for two solid years in New York city and for two seasons on the road. It is regarded by critics as the greatest play written in America in the past fifteen years. There is a wealth of comedy that is bound to win the audience and the plot is one that is both subtle and charming.

The leading roles will be handled by the popular leading members of the players, Mr. Gerald Rowan and Miss Jyllian Desmoude. This great present day play is destined to do capacity business commencing with today's matinee. It is a show that cost high to bring here but it is a sure fire winner. You will like it. Better phone 7610 now and make reservations.

There will be no Friday matinee. Wednesday and Saturday nights are at the present time so nearly all sold out to subscribers it is wise for those who would prefer to attend on those evenings to either phone early in the week or get on the season subscription lists. With "The Gold Diggers," "So This is London" and other first-class bills coming, all sure to attract capacity houses, it would seem the wise thing to do is get on the season subscription list.

OFFICERS INSTALLED BY BARACA CLUB

The Baraca club of the Galvany Baptist church held the installation of its officers for the coming year at the church services last evening. Glen Holcomb, president of the organization for the ensuing year, presided. President Christie, Secretary George J. McDermott and Treasurer Joseph J. Malone, face the task of replenishing the funds immediately and the only method open is to seek donations from the general public. The president has named a committee to take charge of this work and members will immediately begin canvassing for funds. In order that there may be no question as to the collectors, they will wear their uniforms while seeking donations.

Following the installation ceremonies Mr. Hovey addressed the members and emphasized the fact that their motto, "Service for Others," should be lived up to.

The officers for the year are as follows: A President Glen Holcomb; vice president, Arnstein Meyer; secretary, Ralph Harvey; treasurer, Carlton Flynn; teacher, Norman Farnum; associate teacher, Earl Stevenson.

FIREMEN'S RELIEF FUND ASSOCIATION

The Lowell Firemen's Relief Fund association, in its report for the year ending Sept. 30 issued by President William F. Christie, paid out for medical and hospital bills, for men injured while on duty, a total of $3903.30, against which there is only $235 recorded as gifts to the association.

The Associate fire was very costly to the firemen. Nearly every man who fought that fire lost part of his personal equipment and, in addition, each man was assessed $5 by the association as his part of the expense of medical and hospital bills for men injured while on duty.

The officers of the association, President Christie, Secretary George J. McDermott and Treasurer Joseph J. Malone, face the task of replenishing the funds immediately and the only method open is to seek donations from the general public. The president has named a committee to take charge of this work and members will immediately begin canvassing for funds. In order that there may be no question as to the collectors, they will wear their uniforms while seeking donations.

BISHOP ANDERSON AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH
Bishop W. F. Anderson of the Boston district of the Methodist church preached last night at St. Paul's M. E. church in this city, speaking particularly of the need of bringing about an era of creative spiritual life, an era of orderly, steady-going, persistent, organized evangelism to carry on properly the great world enterprises now in hand.

Present at the services were Rev. Charles S. Otto of St. Paul's, Rev. Leslie C. Rockes, pastor of the Church of All Nations, and Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the Highland Union M. E. church.

CUTICURA HEALS HARD PIMPLES

Face Terribly Disfigured. Lasted About a Year.

"My brother was troubled with pimples that broke out in blotches on his face. The pimples at first were small and scattered but later they grew larger and were hard and red. It was impossible for him to shave without irritating them and making them bleed. They grew steadily worse, and his face was terribly disfigured. The trouble lasted about a year.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped him so we purchased more, which completely healed him." (Signed) Miss Lenora M. Galusha, Clinton, Me., April 14, 1924.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for daily toilet purposes. Sample Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. B, Watons St., Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 15c. Talcum 25c. Try our new Shaving Stick.

Successful Modern Business

is No Battle of Wits

IT'S AN OFFER OF SERVICE

WITH A PLEDGE OF GOOD FAITH

That is as it should be. Every store has its policy. Ours is to sell Furniture, Rugs, Bedding and Stoves at a smaller profit than is believed possible by the trade in general and command greater volume of sales that nets as much profit to us at the end of the year. But it takes courage and confidence in yourself to follow this policy, as there is nothing to warrant that you will get the volume of sales. That's the reason so few stores follow it. As a speaker at a trade convention said once, (we quote): "There is the power of advertising to contend with. There are the famous blowers of trumpets, the famous claimers of all ages. They trumpet a mediocre writer, singer, actor, merchandise or price till your ears are filled with their claims. They transform a mediocre lawyer or politician into a sort of personage. You can hardly fail being filled with admiration for the skillful means used. They can make you believe black is white. It is an art. It's a mixture of a sort of hypnotism, a sort of modern puffism. This evil exists to a great extent in present methods of merchandising which should be only distribution of merchandise at a fair cost to cover the transaction. Due to the fact that anyone can buy newspaper space and say what he wishes in that space, the exploiter of the public often succeeds better than the one who serves the public faithfully." Whether you know the value of Furniture, Rugs, Bedding, Stoves, etc., or not, you will feel instinctively safe here. You will have absolute confidence that you are not being charged an undue profit over the cost of its production. That's all you can expect. To lead you to expect more would only be an attempt to deceive you.

OPENS STORE IN LOWELL

Victory Textile Stores, Inc.,
to Sell High Grade Coat
and Dress Goods

The fourth store of the Victory Textile Stores, Inc., opened Saturday at 122-124 Central street, under the management of Edward Brown. The first store of this chain was opened a year ago in Framingham. The establishment was from the beginning a marked success, in fact so much so, that a few months later two other stores were opened, one in Milford and the other in Clinton. The policy of the concern was such that satisfied customers resulted with an accompanying increase in business. The growth was such that the opening of the local store became not only possible, but an assured fact.

The new establishment is attractive in its equipment, cream and mahogany being the prevailing color tones. At the rear are demonstrated pleasing effects in window drapery, of which there is a full line.

MATRIMONIAL

The First Congregational church was the scene Saturday evening of a beautiful autumn wedding of interest in local and out-of-town social and fraternal circles when Miss Mildred M. DuBois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. DuBois of this city became the bride of Mr. Allen Reed Fuller of Three Rivers, Mass. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Percy B. Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church before a large gathering of friends and relatives of the young couple. Miss Gladys DuBois, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while Miss Jessie Fuller of Dorchester, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Marion Lougee and Mrs. Leonard French of this city, and Mrs. Leslie Sutton of Aniston, Ala., attended the bride as bridesmaids. Little Miss Clara Johnson of Nashua, N. H., cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Mr. Lawrence C. Fuller of Boston, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Messrs. Walter Powers of Boston, Alan Sauger of East Orange, N. J., Leonard French of this city and William Dunn of Boston. The wedding march was played by Mr. Clayton Kimball, organist and Mr. Raymond Martin, violinist. Miss Rhoda Witham sang two selections, "I Love You Truly," and "At Dawning."

The bride was given away by her father and was handsomely gowned in white brocade chiffon velvet, trimmed with ostrich feathers and rhinestones. She wore a tulle veil held in place by a coronet of pearls and carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a gown of archaic ombre georgette and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids wore contrasting gowns of chiffon in pastel shades and carried butterfly roses. The flower girl wore a ruffled frock of tangerine georgette and carried a basket of pink rosebuds.

Both the church and the reception and dining rooms of the Hotel Martinique, where a reception and dinner were held following the ceremony, were prettily arranged with autumn finery, palms and cut flowers. The Amphion Ladies trio, Miss Bernice Moulton director, rendered numerous orchestral selections during the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller left on an extended wedding tour to New York and the White Mountains. They will make their home at 190 Maple terrace, Three Rivers, Mass., where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

Vance—Cowdry
Mr. Hugh Herbert Vance and Miss Ethel Alvilda Cowdry, two prominent young people of this city, were married Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents in Dunbar avenue by Rev. Harold P. Carr, pastor of the First Congregational church. Mr. Frank Nichols and Miss Florence May Cowdry, sister of the bride, attended the bridal couple. The bride wore a gown of ivory white caftan crepe trimmed with iridescent beads and a veil of rare old lace caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a gown of dawn-blush crepe de chine over satin and carried sunset roses. The ribbon bearers were Luella, Florence and Ada Cork, gowned in pink, blue and white crepe respectively. Miss Carlina Bartlett, pianist, and Miss Ethel Vance, violinist, niece of the bridegroom, played the Lohengrin wedding march. Miss Iza Smith of Dorchester sang, "O Promise Me," during the ceremony and also rendered vocal selections during the reception which followed. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch adorned with autumn foliage, cut flowers and fern, green and white being the predominating colors. The ushers were Messrs. Harold Cowdry, brother of the bride, and George Vance, brother of the bridegroom. Mrs. James McDermott, sister of the bride, had charge of the guest book. Present at the nuptials from out of town were guests from Hildesheim, N. H., Wolfboro, N. H., Dorchester, Weymouth and Leominster. Mr. and Mrs. Vance will make their home at 435 Stevens street, this city, where they will be at home to friends after Nov. 1.

DELAY RATIFICATION OF AGREEMENT

MOSCOW, Oct. 20.—(By the Associated Press) Ratification by the Soviet government of the Anglo-Russian agreement has been postponed, owing to the governmental crisis in England. It is definitely stated in a resolution of the Central Executive committee of the government, introduced before the all-Russian parliament.

EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS

The Paint Pot, a body of Lowell artists recently organized, are about to place many of their paintings on exhibition at Makers' picture store. In the short time that they have been in existence they have produced some very fine work in oils. The president of the Paint Pot, John Drumm, is delighted with the showing and are the rest of the members of the body. Few people realize that we have in Lowell such capable artists and a fine collection of the exhibition will be well worth while. The date of the exhibition will be announced later.

Women's Minor Ills come from one cause

Chronic constipation is the plague of their lives, but thousands keep healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

WOMEN are so accustomed to finding themselves constipated that they are apt to make matters worse by indifference. Unfortunately many seem to think that it is easier to give the appearance of health with cosmetics, or stifle a headache with an opiate, than to remove the real cause by taking a good laxative.

The pill habit, of course, is not to be recommended, but any woman can take such a mild laxative as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin with assurance that the dose can gradually be decreased and that there will be no shock or weakening of the system.

As is generally known, Syrup Pepsin is a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. A spoonful will clean out the impacted matter and make you feel well by morning.

You should take a dose when you feel the slightest symptom of constipation, such as biliousness, flatulency, lassitude, loss of appetite, restlessness, sleep, bad breath, dull eyes, salivary skin, and to stop fevers and colds. Many do not wait for these symptoms, but take Syrup Pepsin regularly once a week. Mrs. Mary J. White, 122 Cedar Ave., Camden, N. J., and Mrs. L. H. Edwards, Fallside, Colo., say that much of their excellent health can be ascribed to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The other members of the family also use it as, being free from opiates and narcotics, it is perfectly safe, even for infants.

More than ten million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are sold annually, the largest sale in the world. If you have been in the habit of using strong cathartic pills, salt water or "candy cathartics," which contain a coal-tar drug called phenolphthalein, we especially urge you to try this milder method. You will have a better, freer passage and without strain or gripe. A bottle can be had at any drug store and the average cost is less than a cent a dose.

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, fill in their name and address to it, and send it to the Syrup Pepsin Co., 518 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them postpaid by mail. Do not inclose postage. It is free.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION CLOSED SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Rousing Meeting at the Memorial Auditorium—Stirring Address by Bishop William F. Anderson—Sunrise Meeting at Fort Hill Park

After sessions for two days the 29th annual Christian Endeavor state convention came to a close at the Memorial Auditorium Sunday afternoon with a stirring meeting which had as its principal speaker, Bishop William F. Anderson of the Methodist Episcopal church of New England. More than 2000 men and women were present to participate in the closing exercises of the biggest and best convention in the history of the society in Massachusetts.

Also, yesterday afternoon, the retiring president, Erie S. Bacon, turned over the gavel of authority to his successor, Rev. S. H. Addison of Marlboro. Bishop Anderson's address was an inspiration to all within reach of his voice. Among other things, he forecasted the closing of the century with a stirring appeal for the Christian conscience of America to be responsible for great world movements, namely the clearing away of slavery and the putting down of liquor traffic. He asserted that the only way to wipe out the bootlegger is to regard him as a traitor to the United States and to treat him accordingly.

In part, Bishop Anderson spoke as follows: "Mr. Chairman and good friends, in opening I wish to speak concerning the impression I was given of New England before coming here. I was told by a good many of my friends that I would miss much in the Boston area that I had enjoyed in the Cincinnati Kingdom of God was at hand. I was given to understand that my reception would be frosty owing to the natural reserve of the New England people. During the past few weeks I have been in New Hampshire, Maine and Massachusetts and I will say that if the welcome I had enjoyed in the Cincinnati Kingdom of God was at hand, then I treat that it will continue. Courtesy and kindness have been accorded me on all sides.

"One of the outstanding books of the present times is 'In the Heart of a Fool.' It is written to show the folly of trying to build up character and leaving God out of our career. Midway the book it stops from the survey of industrial, political and moral and religious matters and makes one pointed statement: 'Almighty God always leaves an unfinished task on the work bench of the world.' Here is food for thought. Here is history.

"Since 1914 we have heard people say that Christianity has been tried and found wanting. Is this true? Is there an element of truth in this statement? I think that in a certain way this may be true. Take the sentimental, dogmatic, state, political and theoretical religion. They have been tried and found wanting. Will I say that the Christianity of Jesus has been found wanting? No man can say so honestly. Christianity tried and found wanting? No it has not been tried and found wanting. It has been found difficult and not tried."

The speaker then called attention to the matter in which the disciples of Jesus went about crying that the Kingdom of God was at hand. "They did not mean," he said, "the Kingdom of God was at hand."

AL, JR., EJECTS LOVE CANDIDATE

While Governor Al Smith of New York was out campaigning for re-election votes Al, Jr., made a rapid-fire heart campaign and eloped with Bertha Goll, pretty daughter of a Syracuse engineer. The family blessing followed.

celestial kingdom or a vague shadowy kingdom, but they meant a kingdom, builded on the life of humanity, with the essential principles of the life of God. They meant a regenerated life, a life of universal brotherhood and enduring peace. They lived in the dark ages, but they saw ahead that Kingdom of God in which the spirit of brotherhood dwelt in the hearts of men.

"A small man cannot be a Christian. To be a Christian a man must feel the need of humanity and have good will to all humanity. As Jesus said, 'Go ye out into the highways and the hedges and bring them in.' That was the marching orders of the master. Good will, that is the great need of life today."

"What is the greatest need in the world today? It is the one basic principle of the Kingdom of God among men. Mr. Babson has said that when 51 per cent of humanity is selfish then we have had times and when we have over 51 per cent unselfish then we come upon good times.

"What is the biggest word in the world today? That word is 'Brotherhood.' Oh, how greatly the world needs brotherhood today and how the Christian needs to realize the value of brotherhood. The primitive church forgot one fact in framing its doctrines and doctrines through the centuries. It has come to the point where the perfection of the great principle. Perhaps the world is not ready for it yet. But I believe that we are coming more and more to realize and the Christian to recognize in substance the principle of holding all things in common. To share things with others gives greater enjoyment and means much more to humanity.

"Yes, the biggest word and human sign of Christianity is 'Brotherhood.' Until this becomes true we are slaves. Make way for the brotherhood, for we will never have universal and enduring peace until we get the spirit of brotherhood. Men don't fight with their brothers and when we regard all as brothers and with good will, then will come peace.

"Universal peace has been hoped for in all times. Some have said that there will always be war. Well, if we are to have civilization preserved, then we have got to have some other way of making things right than war."

One of the most impressive services of the convention was the sunrise meeting at Fort Hill park Sunday morning, attended by nearly 1500 Christian Endeavorers and friends. The speaker was the new president of the state society, Rev. S. H. Addison of Marlboro.

COL. ROOSEVELT DISCUSSES FARMING

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 20.—In his speech today at Ithaca, the seat of Cornell university and its agricultural school, Theodore Roosevelt, republican nominee for governor, expected to discuss farming and to outline what he considers the proper scope of state aid for New York agriculture.

Colonel Roosevelt faced a somewhat higher schedule this week, embracing 55 speeches, an average of eleven a day. When he leaves Troy for New York Friday night, he will have delivered 20 addresses. He will have around the state with a week of campaigning in the metropolis still ahead of him.

POLICE HAVE NO CLUE TO SAFE-BLOWERS

The police have been unable to run down any clues of the safe-crackers who broke open the door of the safe in the plant of Charles S. Dodge, 67 Payne street, picker-pin manufacturer, Saturday night. Only a small amount of money was stolen.

The break was reported to the police yesterday afternoon, and an investigation followed. The job was done by experts, according to Captain Petrie, a powerful explosive being used to dismantle the heavy door of the safe. No workable clues were left behind.

SCOTT FOR Mayor

To the Voters of Lowell:

I am aspiring to be mayor of Lowell. I am not a politician in the generally accepted meaning of the word.

Most politicians are in politics for what they may be able to get out of it.

Strange as it may seem, I am not in it for what I can get out of it.

I would like the honor and the opportunity to show the people of Lowell that the duties of Mayor and the business of the city can be carried on the same as that of any other business when common sense and the Golden Rule predominate.

Most politicians promise everything and do nothing. I will promise nothing but will accomplish something. The first thought in the minds of most Mayors that are elected is to get re-elected and so in order to accomplish this, their back home becomes a wish bone, and it is their aim to do nothing that might cost a few votes. As a result the burden of taxation is increased and the people have to pay for the votes thus made.

This will not be so in my case.

I will not be concerned about a re-election. The City of Lowell or any other concern could not hire me for five thousand a year if the position did not carry honor.

The Mayorship of a City carries and confers on a man an honor of which one who has gone through life as I have might well be proud. You have candidates before you who are orators, some of marked ability. I am not an orator, am contented to be a performer and if it's an orator you want for Mayor, count me out.

The questions that may arise through the course of a Mayorship term are so many that it is impossible to say what disposition can be made of them. I can only promise a fair and square disposition of any question that may arise, keeping the welfare of the people first in my mind.

I do not pose as a saint or a reformer. I am a sinner like 99 per cent. of humanity, and cannot work miracles, such as making Lowell whiter than snow. My slogan is the same today as it was three years ago, "Common Sense," with the addition of the Golden Rule.

My first effort if elected will be to create harmony amongst all department heads and the governing bodies, so that the best results for the benefit of the people may be obtained.

If a policy of this kind appeals to you, put your shoulder to the wheel and by your vote and your influence help to elect Scott Mayor.

Truly yours,
SAMUEL SCOTT,
220 Appleton Street.

cases before the voters, probably as much because they had other speeches to make today in North Andover and in Lawrence as for any other reason.

Mr. Rogers was given the usual cordial reception which marks his public appearance in his home district and Senator Howard, who received with equal effusion. Mr. Fuller was the main attraction of the afternoon and his speech was the characteristic staid and dignified remarks the public has grown to expect of him.

For an afternoon only the attendance was all that could be expected. The rally served its main purpose well, that of showing that the party in the state has not been completely overcome with the general feeling in New England that, without effort, the League of Nations will be carried in with Coolidge.

From Adams to New Bedford and from Springfield to Lowell the whole state is a stamping ground for the republican party leaders this week. Headquarters were set up in the city.

Epineard will be shipped to France on the Berengaria, Nov. 5. Mr. Wertheimer departs next Wednesday on the Paris.

Davis' Views on League

ing the democratic campaign. I expressed my attitude on this question with complete frankness. I said, speaking in the abstract terms of national interest, it was not wise, or prudent or safe that 54 nations of the world should sit together in conference on world affairs and America be absent. I said while this nation could not join the League of Nations helpfully unless and until the common judgment of the American people supported such a step, the day will come in my judgment when we should see that both interest and duty dictated the step.

"I do not believe the League of Nations is perfect, I do not believe that it has assumed its final form. I believe in life and growth and motion and habit. I am not concerned even about the terms on which we shall appear at the council table of the world. Out of that appearance and out of such conference, in God's good time will grow a friendly habit among them, the custom of calm and reasonable discussion and a proper yielding not to force, not to super-stare, not to command, but in the language of the declaration of Independence itself, to a decent respect for the opinion of mankind."

make known the committee choice to national headquarters.

J. Joseph Hennessy, chairman of the O'Sullivan campaign committee in the fifth congressional district, announced this morning that Hon. James B. O'Donnell, former mayor of Lowell, had consented to act as chairman of Friday night's meeting. He expressed disappointment over the knowledge that the vice president under Woodrow Wilson would be unable to appear because of a previous assignment to Virginia, but asserted some speaker of equal practice will undoubtedly be obtained.

The O'Sullivan committee is optimistic over reports received from various towns in the district where registration was greatly increased due to the co-ordinated work of democratic town committees. Mr. O'Sullivan has been quietly carrying on a hard campaign in the smaller cities and towns of the district and is booked well ahead for speeches for the remainder of the campaign. He will speak here Friday night together with the gubernatorial nominee, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston. Other speakers will be Sirabo V. Claggett, who is almost certain of being the next state auditor, and a few of the aspirants for minor office.

by Gov. Cox, Lieut. Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, Speaker Frederick H. Gillett and Senator S. D. Fess, of Ohio, the best speakers in the party will strongly urge the election of the entire republican ticket from Calvin Coolidge down.

Lieut. Gov. Fuller has made the chief issue of the state campaign that of republican economy in government vs. extravagance, comparing the administration of Gov. Cox, which Lieut. Gov. Fuller pledges himself to continue, with the Curley financial policy as executed in Boston.

The funeral arrangements were in charge of Harry A. Brown, under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN REITERATES CHARGE

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Conferees with some 150 state and district leaders, during the past week, have convinced Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican National committee of "the open alliance" between democratic and third party leaders in certain states. Mr. Butler declared in a statement today:

"The open alliance," the statement said, "of the democratic and third party leaders in certain states to throw the election in congress and thus deprive the voters of their right to elect a president at the polls, has stiffened the determination to block this plan by voting for Calvin Coolidge.

"The program of the third party for the destruction of the constitution, the virtual abolition of the supreme court, and the public ownership of railroads, has aroused the people to the gravity of this election and the importance particularly of their individual votes."

"The nation-wide confidence in Calvin Coolidge and the resultant determination to vote for him, continues to be one of the most impressive features of this campaign. We have profited by the character of the issues, which our opponents have introduced and the campaigning methods which they have employed."

"Our opponents are apparently not altogether happy over the situation. We are already experiencing their backfires and I anticipate that the next two weeks will find the air thick with charges, accusations and misrepresentations aimed to divert the public attention from the real issues."

MARRIED 25 YEARS

Four Generations Represented at Silver Wedding Anniversary

Four generations were represented at the 25th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McKennedy, which was celebrated at their home in East Chelmsford yesterday afternoon and evening. In addition there were guests present from Lowell, Wakefield, Concord, Tewksbury, Providence and Stoneham.

Michael McKennedy and Catherine Harrington were married on Oct. 24, 1899, but the celebration was set for yesterday in order to permit their many relatives and friends to attend. The late Rev. John P. Reynolds, O.M.J., then pastor of the Sacred Heart church, Lowell, performed the ceremony.

Five children blessed the union, all of whom are living. John, eldest of the children, is married and has a son, John, Jr. The other children are Louise, Henry, Gertrude and James. Mr. McKennedy's father, John, now in the eighties, and hale and hearty for his years, was an honored guest at the anniversary. He stood in the receiving line with his son and daughter-in-law as the guests stepped forward to offer congratulations.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, autumn foliage, ferns, potted plants and wedding bells and streamers being used in the decorative scheme. On display were numerous pieces of silverware, gifts to the happy couple. The children's gift to their parents was a twenty-five dollar silver. During the afternoon a delightful program was carried out while at 6 o'clock a sumptuous dinner was served. Later musical and literary numbers were given. At the conclusion of the happy event the guests departed after wishing Mr. and Mrs. McKennedy many more prosperous years of married life.

PRES. COOLIDGE TO TALK ON TAX REDUCTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—President Coolidge set aside part of his time today to start work on the address he will deliver here Thursday night before the eastern division of the chamber of commerce of the United States, in which he is expected to outline definitely his program for tax reduction.

Mr. Coolidge also plans to visit a meeting of officials of the Near East Relief here this week and later to address by radio a meeting in New York of the Federated Societies of Jewish charities.

Endorsing plans of the Navy League of the United States to observe Oct. 27, the birthday of President Roosevelt, as Navy Day, Mr. Coolidge, in a letter to Commander Marion Eppley, national chairman of the organization said it could not be doubted that the navy's services to peace and the sciences of peace would "continue to justify the maintenance of the full naval capacity" under the Washington arms conference treaty. That the naval treaty "will prove only the beginning of an international program involving continuing reductions of armament by land, but sea and air," he added, "is the earnest hope of all who desire the abolition of war."

SEN. WHEELER CHANGES SCHEDULE

ENID, Okla., Oct. 20.—By an alteration of his schedule, Senator Wheeler, independent vice-presidential nominee, was given 12 extra hours today to campaign through Oklahoma. Beginning at 9 a. m. he planned to address a rally at Enid, while details of his movement were wired ahead in order to assemble audiences at most of the trap stops between Enid and Oklahoma City, where he will speak to night.

Oklahoma is the twenty-third state into which he has taken his campaign. Senator Wheeler pointed out in his talk, and he appealed particularly to democratic voters to abandon their affiliations so far as their national ticket was concerned, on the ground that he had found during his lengthy tour little prospect that John W. Davis could defeat Coolidge in the November election.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 5

On through space they soared and Jack was enjoying the flight immensely. His hand grew tired from holding on to Flop's tail and he finally let go. Instantly the little monkey jumped off of his master's shoulder and scampered out on the back of the plane. Jack was scared for fear the monkey would fall.

"Come back here," he shouted. But the little monkey just hung onto a wire of the plane with his tail—and jumped up and down. He was really enjoying the stiff breeze that was whipping his little body. Flip, in the meantime, got up on his haunches and stick his head out of the plane.

Suddenly the aviator turned the machine into a spiral dive and Jack and Flop both ducked down into their little cubby hole. Flop, however, was taken by complete surprise and he skidded down the plane and fell right in on top of the aviator. But no harm was done. (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"OH, LOOK!" CRIED NANCY. "THERE IS SOMEONE BECKONING TO US FROM THAT APPLE-TREE."

"Yes," said Daddy Gander to the twins as they rode along through the sky on his magic dust-pan. "The tin rooster was right. There isn't any doubt that the Maiden-All-Fair and the Tattered Man have gone to housekeeping in the House-That-Jack-Built."

"Oh, look!" cried Nancy. "There is someone beckoning to us from that apple tree. Let's stop and see who it is."

So Daddy Gander said, "Whoa!" to his dust pan and it stopped in the tip-topmost branch of the apple tree.

"Way, hello," said Nick. "It's the apple-tree fairy who runs the elevator up to the sky."

"I'm glad you haven't forgotten me," said the apple-tree fairy. "I thought I heard someone talking about the House-That-Jack-Built. Was it you?"

"It was I," said Daddy Gander. "Do you know anything about it?"

"No, I don't," said Nick. "I thought I heard someone talking about the House-That-Jack-Built. Was it you?"

"Oh, I mean do you know where it's gone?" asked Daddy Gander. "It's lost."

"Ant's wings and snail's horns," cried the little fairy in surprise. "You don't say so?"

"Oh, yes," said Nancy. "It's gone and we're hunting for it. The tin rooster on the barn and Higgleddy Diggledy, the black hen, said that they thought the Maiden-All-Fair and the Tattered Man had gone to housekeeping in it."

"I don't believe it," said the Apple-Tree Fairy. "They wouldn't do such a thing. Wait a minute! I've an idea. Was there a wind-storm thereabouts when the house disappeared?"

"Not that I know of," said Daddy Gander. "But then it's pretty hard to tell sometimes. We never can be sure in Mother Goose Land whether it's a wind-storm or Poppleton Bun, the miller-man, snoring. Why?"

"It was just thinking," said the Apple-Tree Fairy. "That up on the seventeenth floor of the sky there is a place called 'The Department of Lost Things.' It's for the wind-storm things."

"Whatever are you talking about?" cried Nick. "What wind-storm things?"

"Oh, pigs, and baby-carrots, and haystacks, and churns, and automobiles and houses and things like that, that blow away in wind-storms," said the apple-tree fairy. "They have to blow somewhere, don't they? So they blow up to the seventeenth floor of the sky and we fairies sort them out. It's quite a village."

"But how could Jack's house be blown up there when nothing else was?" asked Nancy.

"O, easily," said the fairy. "A tornado is just a wind cloud that looks like a kite with a tail. The tail comes along and—whisk! It can blow you right off the map and leave the person you were talking to without so much as pushing an eyelash out of place."

"Well then," said Daddy Gander. "Well go there at once and look."

"Just leave your magic dust-pan here," said the apple-tree fairy. "I'll run you up in my elevator as quick as Jack Robinson would wink his eye."

Conrad H. Mann, managing organizer and financial advisor of the order, will be the principal speaker. District Grand President James Gallagher of Rochester will also come, attended by Grand Inside Guard John Lyons of Waterville. All of the officers of the Massachusetts State aerie as well as officers and members of the aeries in surrounding municipalities will also be present.

Lowell Aerie of Eagles, organized in 1902 under the leadership of the late P. A. M. Tobin, realizes a long-cherished ambition in the occupancy of its new home, owned by the aerie. The organization has grown annually in numbers to its present strong membership and financial solidity.

George H. McCabe, oldest living past president of the aerie, who assumed office in 1903, has promised President Quinn that he will take a hand in the big ceremonial planned for November 12. James T. Doyle, conductor under the McCabe regime, will also be prominent in the night's activities.

It was under the McCabe regime in 1903 that John M. Hogan, another charter member of the aerie, was elected to secretary, which office he has occupied with zeal and distinction since that time.

NEW SYSTEM FOR MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRY

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Motorists living in Lowell and vicinity, and who make use of the local registration office in obtaining their number plates for 1925, will find their numbers ranging from 150,001 to 165,000. If they desire a number of only five figures—that is, under 100,000, they must mail their applications to the Boston office at Commonwealth pier, Boston.

Another innovation adopted this year by the registry is the reserving of all numbers under 10,000, the two-, three- and four-figure plates. Any motorist having such a number this year should have received already an application blank, bearing his number, and informing him that by returning it to the Boston office before the first day of November he may retain the same number for 1925. (Hereafter, only the numbers below 5000 have been reserved.)

The plan of sending all numbers below 100,000 by mail has been worked out in an effort to reduce the rush at Commonwealth pier. It is much cheaper for the registry, and in most cases for the motorist, to have his plates sent through the mail, but thousands have not yet learned the lesson, with the result that annually there is a rush which almost swamps the clerks at Commonwealth pier, and every applicant, even though he arrives December 1st, insists upon having a low number. By eliminating all the low numbers from the counter at the pier, it is believed that a large volume of the business will go into the mails.

In expansion of the new system, Charles B. Cullen, chief clerk at the registry, has issued this statement: "The department wishes particularly to impress upon the public that no attention can be paid to requests for low and special numbers, because hereafter the number of the motorist determines the number of the registration plate assigned. It should be obvious that with the work of registering 500,000 machines, any deviation from the system would not only cause difficulty in recording and accounting for fees, but would slow up delivery of plates tremendously, and therefore cause inconvenience to every applicant."

"On Jan. 1, 1924, approximately 300,000 cars had been registered. This year probably 400,000 persons will want to run their cars on New Year's day. It is hoped that every owner who plans to use his car on that day, will avoid, for his own convenience, coming to the registry during the last week preceding New Year's. During that week it is probable that applicants will be obliged to wait in line, perhaps as long as two hours, in order to be served. The convenient method of obtaining plates is to apply, either in person or by mail, prior to Dec. 25."

During the current month, the registry will attend only to the reserved plates and the dealer plates. Next month, beginning Nov. 3, general registration will begin. This will be carried on at the new registry at Commonwealth pier, and the new branches in Quincy, Lynn, Fall River, Lowell, Lawrence, Pittsfield, New Bedford, Worcester and Springfield. In addition it is planned to open four more branches during November, the places tentatively selected being Brockton, Fitchburg, Haverhill and Greenfield.

The registry will not send out blank applications by mail to anybody except the holders of numbers below 10,000. But arrangements have been made so that blanks can be obtained without trouble in many different places. No change whatever has been made in the blank, so that those in use last year may be used just as well as new blanks. Supplies will be placed in all the branches, at police stations, with automobile clubs, dealers, garages, and several banks and insurance companies will supply them. By the new arrangement outlined above, each branch registry will have a specified series of plates, and by remembering the series assigned to each branch it will be possible to tell approximately from what part of the

EDUCATION IN AUSTRIA

Canon Law Says Chancellor Seipel

VIENNA, Oct. 20.—Chancellor Seipel has caused considerable concern, especially in educational circles, by observing that the time was ripe to branch the question of enforcing the canon law in question of education in Austria. He was not prepared to admit that parents had the right to decide to which school they should send their children; that right belonged exclusively to the church.

Commenting on the speech, the Arbeiter Zeitung asserts that the chancellor is aiming to convert Austria into a papal state, ruled by the archbishop of Vienna.

The letter, written at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where he recently submitted to an operation, asserted that "the alternative to Davis' leadership, rejection and chaos." The clerical, reaction and chaos.

Byran, he added, offers the only chance to "purify the government and to accomplish the reforms demanded by the people." It was the first extended statement on the campaign since the democratic national convention.

"If the forces of reaction represented by the Coolidge administration succeed in November," he said, "it will be due solely to division in the ranks of the progressive and liberal forces in America. It is a great pity that the progressiveness led by La Follette and Wheeler and the democrats led by Bryan and Bryan cannot present a united front against the common enemy."

state a given car. Quincy will have numbers running from 100,001 to 115,000; Lynn from 115,001 to 130,000; Fall River from 130,001 to 150,000; Lowell from 150,001 to 165,000. Springfield will have 165,001 to 180,000; New Bedford from 180,001 to 200,000; Worcester from 200,001 to 215,000; and Springfield from 215,001 to 230,000. Boston will have from 230,001 to 100,000, to be issued by mail, and from 320,001 upwards to be handed out over the counter.

Two important changes have been made in the 1925 plates. The back of obtaining plates is to apply, either in person or by mail, prior to Dec. 25. In person or by mail, prior to Dec. 25. During the current month, the registry will attend only to the reserved plates and the dealer plates. Next month, beginning Nov. 3, general registration will begin. This will be carried on at the new registry at Commonwealth pier, and the new branches in Quincy, Lynn, Fall River, Lowell, Lawrence, Pittsfield, New Bedford, Worcester and Springfield. In addition it is planned to open four more branches during November, the places tentatively selected being Brockton, Fitchburg, Haverhill and Greenfield.

Three Armed Youths Force
Way Into New York Apartment
of Helen Haywood

Robbed Girl of $500 Ring
and Took Watch Valued
at $400 From Escort

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Three armed men, young and well dressed, forced their way into the West Side apartment of Miss Helen Haywood early today and robbed her of a platinum diamond ring, valued at $500 and took a watch valued at $400 from Alfred Hannon, a guest. The actions of the gunmen were similar in many respects to those of the men who recently robbed Miss Edith Robe, model, and an escort, of jewelry valued at $60,000.

The men, entering the apartment house shortly after Miss Haywood had returned home, forced the elevator operator to take them to Miss Haywood's apartments. Forcing an entrance there, they held up Miss Haywood and three guests, but took only Miss Haywood's ring and Hannon's watch. Jewelry in a considerable value is believed to have been in the apartment at the time.

NAVAL FORCES ARE LANDED

Chinese Troops Continue
Looting and Robbing Citizens in Canton

British and French Armed
Forces Landed to Protect
Foreign Concession

CANTON, Oct. 20. (By the Associated Press.)—While Chinese troops continued looting and robbing citizens here today, British and French armed naval forces were landed to protect the foreign concession and boats plying between Hong Kong and Canton.

The naval forces put ashore today brought with them machine guns with which to protect bridges in the foreign concession. British military forces also are arriving from Hong Kong.

Clashes of the rival factions and the expected arrival of Cheng Kwing-Ming with a fully-armed force of 15,000 are causing alarm. The merchants' volunteer corps, whose differences with the so-called "Red army" of Chinese laborers precipitated the present trouble in Canton, is concentrating its forces at Shuhing, west of Canton, with a view to making a final effort to expel the troops from this city.

The local British consular has been accused of harboring Chan Lim Pak, head of the Merchants' Volunteer corps, and other officials of that organization within the foreign concession.

HIGHWAY CONDITIONS SOMEWHAT IMPROVED

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Although the number of deaths from motor vehicle accidents increased last week to 12, this being six more than in the previous week, in all other respects the figures indicate highway conditions somewhat improved.

Only 104 persons were convicted of operating while under the influence of liquor, this being a decrease of two from the record of the preceding week. In the matter of licenses and registrations suspended or revoked, the number was 215, a reduction of 32 from the week before.

Of the liquor convictions, 50 were in lower courts, and 14 in the superior court. Of the 14 in the higher court, four were committed to jail.

In the lower courts, five persons were convicted of a second time of operating while under the influence of liquor, in which case the law makes mandatory a jail sentence. Two of these, however, were allowed to pay a fine, and the remaining three appeared from jail sentences.

Seventeen persons appeared from jail sentences imposed in the lower courts. Of the 15 licenses and registrations taken away during the week by the registrar of motor vehicles, 10 were because of liquor; 23 for operating recklessly, or in such a manner as to endanger the public; 11 for going away without disclosing identity following an accident; 12 for operating without authority of the owner; 10 for two overspeed convictions; 23 for improper equipment; and 101 because the registrar considered them improper persons to be allowed to operate.

TO RESUME PROBE OF "SLUSH FUND" CHARGE IN WASHINGTON

Chairman Borah and Other Members of Senate Investigating Committee Leave Chicago for Washington
—To Resume Investigation Tomorrow

CHICAGO, Oct. 20. (By the Associated Press.)—William B. Borah, chairman, and the other members of the special senate committee investigating campaign contributions and expenditures were enroute to Washington today after having started their initial inquiry here. Tomorrow in the senate office building the committee will resume its investigation of reports that a huge republican slush fund is being raised for use in doubtful states, although the democratic national committee's collections, expenditures and proposed budget for the remaining days of the campaign and expenditures of the La Follette forces also will be brought under the committee's scrutiny.

The committee will have as fresh material the statement of William Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, issued here last night, that one hundred La Follette leaders at Milwaukee Sept. 9 decided to raise $500,000 in that state alone to further the presidential candidacy of the senior Wisconsin senator, and the assertion from Madison, Wis., last night of La Follette's La Follette leader, that Wisconsin had contributed only $40,000.

Mr. Onstad said there had been an announcement that the larger fund would be raised, but it "was more enthusiastic than actual facts justified."

Upon resuming tomorrow at Washington the committee will center its attention upon the La Follette charges of a republican slush fund.

Senator La Follette will be represented by Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City. Walsh has sought the opportunity of cross-examining witnesses. He expects to have associated with him Samuel Untermyer of New York, a supporter of the democratic national ticket.

$500,000 in that state alone to further the presidential candidacy of the senior Wisconsin senator, and the assertion from Madison, Wis., last night of La Follette's La Follette leader, that Wisconsin had contributed only $40,000.

FIRE DRILL TODAY AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

A fire drill was conducted at the high school this morning by Major Walter Jeyes, director of safety in the public schools, and Headmaster Henry H. Harris, and the school was emptied of every student and teacher in exactly two minutes.

This time it is 11 seconds in excess of last year's record but was very satisfactory owing to the fact that there are about 300 more students in the school this year than there were last year.

The drill was held shortly after the beginning of the second period, at about 9:30 o'clock, and was unexpected to both students and teachers. Despite the fact that it was the first drill of the year, the students and teachers fled out of the proper exits without any confusion.

WILL MEET HOWE HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN

The high school third football team will engage the Howe high school eleven of Billerica in a return game at the Billerica team's field Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.
